Tom Mooney Urges World-Wide Boycott On California

Famous Writers, Editors and Judges Urge Pardon, Hear Rolph Played

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 12.—(UP)—Gray-haired Tom Mooney, imprisoned and branded a felon, saw his 15 year battle for freedom climaxed today with a demand for nation-wide action against injustice and "framed evidence."

All the public opinion aroused by Mooney's famous case was centered on the man behind San Quentin walls yesterday when San Francisco led the nation in acclaiming the hour for his pardon. Mooney himself sounded the call for action in a letter advocating a world-wide boycott against California until he is out of prison.

An audience of 9000 at the Mooney Anniversary convention arose in a mass to cheer his message urging the adoption of the same methods that the Mahatma Gandhi used to "bring the most powerful empire to its knees."

"This was accomplished very largely through the boycott," said Mooney in describing "The most effective weapon. I suggest that all athletic and sports representatives refuse to come to Los Angeles for the Olympic Games in 1932 as long as I, an innocent man, remain in prison."

He also urged the discouragement of tourists "by the workers and all the real friends of labor and every lover of fair play and decency." Then he hinted his present discouragement in reference to Governor James Rolph, Jr., of California who was mayor of San Francisco at the time of the Preparedness Day bombing of which Mooney and Warren K. Billings were convicted.

"Governor Rolph has no more intention of freeing me than he has of taking his own life," he said. "He has been governor for 10 months. Instead of giving me a hearing he has been stalling."

L. A. IS ASSURED
UNION DEPOT

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12.—(UP)—Los Angeles was assured of a new union station today when the United States Supreme court refused to reconsider its decision of last year in which it upheld the validity of the California Railroad commission order directing the three roads running into the city to build a joint terminal.

The road questioning the order were the Atchafalaya, Topeka and Santa Fe, the Los Angeles and Salt Lake and the Southern Pacific.

FASCIST WILL
URGE GERMANS
CHANGE REGIME

Immediate Dissolution and General Election to Be Taken to Reichstag

HAMBURG, Germany, Oct. 12.—(UP)—Germany's Fascist and Nationalist parties, united as the "national opposition" will demand immediate dissolution and a general election when the reichstag convenes Tuesday.

The two parties are making their thundering bid for the power now held by the government of Chancellor Heinrich Brüning after a most colorful demonstration here yesterday.

The ordinarily quiet atmosphere of Hamburg, a popular spa, gave way before military parades of brown shirted Fascists and gray clad members of the steel helmets, Reactionary War veterans' organization.

Hitler Cheered

Adolph Hitler, Fascist or "Nazi" leader who received his first audience from President Paul von Hindenburg Saturday, Alfred Hugenberg, powerful Nationalist leader, and Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, former president of the reichsbank, were cheered wildly as they denounced the Brüning regime, and demanded that the entire system of democracy be swept aside along with the peace treaties, and that Germany be given equal rights of armament with other world powers.

Dr. Schacht's alliance with the Nationalist opposition was not entirely unexpected, due to his contention that Germany is able to continue to pay reparations, but his violent attack on the Brüning regime was the sensation of the meeting.

Accuses Brüning

He accused the government, chiefly Brüning, President of the Reichsbank Hans Luther, and Minister of Finance Herman Dietrich, of concealing Germany's "catastrophic financial position." He said the recent report of the Wismar international bankers committee was "distortive."

The opposition decided to demand immediate dissolution of the reichstag and a general election November 8, the thirteenth birthday of the German republic.

Asa Keyes Released On Parole Will Sell Cars;
Softened By Experience

Believes Term in Prison
Would Give District Attorneys More Sympathy

SAN QUENTIN PRISON, Calif., Oct. 12.—(UP)—The big iron gates of San Quentin prison swung open today and Asa Keyes, former Los Angeles district attorney, walked out, a free man.

Nineteen months have elapsed since imprisonment of the once famous lawyer on charges of bribery in connection with the collapse of the $100,000,000 Julian Petroleum company.

Keyes, originally sentenced to from one to 14 years, must remain on parole for two years. He immediately went to State Parole Officer Ed Whyte to learn the conditions of his freedom.

Whyte also was to give him train fare and Keyes, now 53 years old, was to leave immediately for Los Angeles where he expects to become an automobile salesman.

Smokes First Cigar

As he walked out of prison, Keyes wore a suit of prison made clothes that fitted him excellently, and was puffing the first cigar "I've smoked since I entered."

In addition to the $10 given him by the prison, he had $60 he had had on deposit in the prison bank.

Two burglars, one holdup man, and a man convicted on a statutory charge regained their freedom with Keyes.

The former district attorney, wearing a wide brimmed "political campaigner's hat," was the picture of health. "Maybe I gained weight in there," he said, "but it's certainly great to be out."

Met by Newspapermen

Keyes was met by 45 newspaper men, two of whom took him by automobile to Sausalito, then on an automobile ferry to San Francisco. No others were on hand to welcome him.

"I'm going to keep quiet in a hotel during the day, then catch the Sunset Limited at 6 p. m. for Los Angeles," he said. "It will be wonderful to get back home."

Keyes said he would sell automobiles for a while and then fight for pardon, restoration to citizenship.

SUPREME COURT
SUPPORTS DRY
LAW IN RULING

Five Prohibition Appeals
Dismissed at First Session of Tribunal

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12.—(UP)—The supreme court in its first decision day of the term, today eliminated 103 of the 450 cases on its docket. Among the appeals rejected were an attack on the validity of the 18th amendment, a complaint against the use of a federal court to collect money, and a lower court ruling that a carillon was not a work of art and therefore was subject to the tariff.

The court denied rehearings in the case of Prof. Douglas Clyde Mackintosh of Yale and Miss Marie Bland, New York City nurse, who were denied citizenship because of their conscientious scruples against war. The court also denied hearing of the Indiana chain store tax case. Both were decided last spring by 5-4 decisions.

The court also refused to review its decision of last spring upholding President Hoover's oil conservation policy on public lands.

In this case the legality of Secretary of Interior Wilbur's orders of withdrawal from entry were attacked as arbitrary and illegal.

Chief Justice Hughes took a new step to save the court's time today when he abandoned an old custom of reading court's orders. He said from the bench there were too many to be read, so they would merely be filed with the clerk.

In five prohibition appeals which the court dismissed, the enforcement side was upheld by the lower courts.

After its short decision session, the court opened the hearings on arguments.

S. A. COLLEGE
STUDENT DIES
IN CAR CRASH

Garden Grove Pioneer in
Auto Crash; Lyle Shuman
Killed on Ridge Route

A SANTA ANA Junior college student and a pioneer citizen of Garden Grove were instantly killed in two automobile accidents Saturday night.

Jess Aronhalt, 60, of Garden Grove, died when struck by a car on the Coast highway, one mile west of Huntington Beach. The student was Lyle Shuman, 19, of Huntington Beach, killed when the car in which he was riding tumbled over an embankment on the ridge route.

Automobile accidents in the county over the week end were few. No one was seriously injured according to reports made by the California highway patrol and by the sheriff's office.

Struck By Car

Aronhalt, with C. L. Weber went to Huntington Beach Saturday afternoon to surf fish. They were still fishing at 10 p. m. when Aronhalt told his companion he was going to his car which he had left parked across the highway from the ocean. Automobile headlights are believed to have confused him when he stepped out onto the road and he was struck by a car driven by B. Palmer, Pacific Electric railway employe, resident of Long Beach. Death is believed to have been instantaneous.

Palmer was not held by Constable Jess Elliott, who was near the scene of the crash at the time. The sheriff's office also made an investigation of the death. The body was removed to the Dixon Funeral home in Huntington Beach and officers declared that an inquest would be held over the body at 10 a. m. tomorrow.

Aronhalt is survived by three brothers, W. B., of Atwater, Calif.; J. E., of Colby, Kansas, and H. L., of Neely, Neb.; three sisters, Mrs. Jennie Carroll of Hook Island, Ill.; Mrs. Nellie Schweizer of Garden Grove, and Maude Aronhalt of Garden Grove.

Funeral services have been set for 2 p. m. tomorrow with interment in the Central Memorial park.

AGED MEN, WOMEN
IN LOVE BATTLE

WOODLAKE, Tulare County, Cal., Oct. 12.—(UP)—Jealousy at one corner of a triangular love affair involving two men and a woman, all of grandfatherly age, was blamed today for a barbaric attempted double murder and suicide near here that placed all three victims near death in hospitals.

The woman was Mrs. Albina Smith, 57, who lived up to pioneer traditions at the crucial moment. Although her legs were so torn by buckshot from the shotgun of Silas Miller that physicians today said she probably would lose one leg, she ended the battle by, while lying on the ground, beating Miller with his own weapon until his skull was crushed.

Miller apparently was attempting to kill M. H. Hopper, 65, the favored suitor, by the slow process of gassing him to death with a pocket knife when Mrs. Smith first bludgeoned Miller with his shotgun.

ONE MAN IS HELD
AFTER CRIME WAVE

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 12.—(UP)—Howard Doss, 23, was held today on charges of participating in a miniature crime wave that ended with the fatal shooting of his brother Irvin, 34, father of three children.

Howard Doss, badly wounded in the abdomen and legs, was arrested shortly after Irvin's body had been identified by his wife, Mrs. Myrtle Doss, and another brother, Iva. Police were summoned by a physician to whom Howard Doss applied for medical aid.

The story of a wild ride punctuated by small holdups, during which he lay bound and gagged on the floor of his own car was told by Henry Gross, 24 year old law student, whose machine was commandeered by the bandits.

Three men captured him and made him accompany them while they held up oil stations and grocery stores in the mission district, Gross said.

HOLD LITTLE HOPE
FOR THOMAS EDISON

WEST ORANGE, N. J., Oct. 12.—(UP)—Thomas A. Edison today began what may be the last week of his life, extremely weak from effects of uremic poisoning, diabetes and stomach ulcers.

Dr. Hubert S. Howe, his physician, said he did not believe Edison could live more than a week, although the 84 year old inventor has shown "amazing vitality" and there appears to be no immediate emergency.

Edison sat up in an armchair for two hours yesterday afternoon after eating a few spoonfuls of stewed pears, but by mid-afternoon again fell asleep.

No Profit In Boston
Soul Saving

BOSTON, Oct. 12.—(UP)—Aimee Semple McPherson Hutton's Boston revival was such a poor drawing card yesterday that it was announced there would be no more daily reports on the financial returns.

The unemployed, who were promised a 50-50 split on proceeds of the revival, will get no relief if gate receipts continue small.

Gross receipts totaled less than $220 today, compared with expenses of $5200. Indications were that receipts of the revival scheduled to last nine days, might not cover expenses.

Yesterday afternoon's meeting attracted 56,200 to Boston Garden and the collection amounted to $658.97. Last night's audience was estimated by the management at 14,302 but police said no more than 8500 were in the building. The evening collection was less than $1000.

Manager Richard Dunn of the Garden announced "Mrs. Hutton is here to convert souls, not to make money."

STANDARD OIL
LAUNCHES TAX
EVASION WAR

Reward for Apprehension of Evaders Seen as Indication of Price Boost

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 12.—(UP)—A $1000 reward offered by the Standard Oil Company of California for the apprehension of gasoline tax evaders was construed by retailers today as an indication of rising fuel prices.

The company said the evasions were a vital factor in price wars and the attendant evils they have brought to the petroleum industry. The three-cent tax forms a large enough portion of total cost per gallon to permit evaders to sell at destructive prices, the company charged.

At the same time Charles Jacobs, executive secretary of the Retail Service Station Dealers' association, here, said he expected an early increase in gasoline prices to 18 or 20 cents a gallon.

Jacobs based his prediction on the fact that independent refiners recently advanced wholesale rates to dealers half a cent a gallon. Independent refiners are selling gasoline for 15 1-2 cents a gallon and the major companies for 15 1-2 cents. The official said he believed the major concerns contemplated a similar increase.

GOVERNOR NAMES
WATERSHED GROUP

SACRAMENTO, Calif., Oct. 12.—(UP)—Plans for an immediate meeting of the newly-appointed state committee on watershed protection were laid here today, following appointment of the 19 members by Governor Rolph.

The committee, named upon recommendation of the state board of forestry, will study the effect of destruction by fire of brush and forest cover on watersheds, in connection with the proposed state program of water development.

Members appointed were:

Dr. George C. Pardee, Oakland; State Forester M. B. Pratt; Walter Mulford, Berkeley; Woodbridge Metcalf, Berkeley; A. C. Hardison, Ventura; J. N. Thiele, Santa Paula; Dr. J. N. Baylis, San Bernardino; Ernest Dudley, Exeter; Paul Bailey, Santa Ana; E. C. Eaton, Los Angeles; Swift Berry, Camano; Francis Cuttle, Riverside; H. S. Gilman, San Dimas; S. R. Black, San Francisco; S. B. Shaw, San Francisco; Charles C. Dunwoody, San Francisco; E. I. Kotok, Berkeley; George H. Cecil, Los Angeles; H. A. Benedict, South Fork.

DESIRE FOR PEACE
MAY BE EFFECTIVE

Ambassador Debuchi Makes
Defense of Japan's Stand
Before Secretary Stimson

TOKIO, Oct. 12.—(UP)—Increasing indications that Japan is prepared to defy Washington and the League of Nations were evident today after the publication of Tokyo's reply to the league note on Manchuria.

Tensest atmosphere was created in government circles as the reaction of the United States and the league was awaited.

The note, reiterating Japan's position in Manchuria and disclaiming territorial ambitions, was dispatched in time to reach an urgent session of the league council in Geneva tomorrow.

Will Stand Ground

As the hour for the meeting drew near, it appeared evident that Japan will stand her ground should active intervention in Manchuria be attempted. The most hopeful attitude was maintained however, in the belief that Japan's reassurances of a desire for peace would quiet the situation.

Government authorities indicated that if the league and Washington accept the Japanese view of the Manchurian crisis, they will be able to publish Japan's minimum demands for a settlement. They already have been indicated in a general note to world powers and dealt chiefly with the anti-Japanese boycott movement in China.

DEBUT CONFERES WITH STIMSON

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12.—(UP)—The interest of the United States in the clash between Japan and China over Manchuria is to see that it is not settled by war but by pacific means according to an authorized view revealed today.

Secretary of State Stimson disclosed he is in constant correspondence with the secretariat of the League of Nations over the situation. A note sent last night offering to support the league's course by independent action does not mean a hands off policy but the contrary, Stimson explained. The policy was described in one quarter as one of "firmness."

Defends Position

A comprehensive defense of Japan's position in its quarrel with China over hostilities in Manchuria was made before Secretary of State Stimson and Undersecretary Castle today by Ambassador Katsuki Debutchi of Japan. He conferred with the two American officials for nearly an hour. The ambassador was firmly convinced war would be avoided.

Debutchi's call followed publication of Stimson's note to the League of Nations, urging the league to "assert all the pressure and authority within its competence" to maintain peace.

Debutchi emphasized that Japan was not seeking to gain sovereignty over China's rich eastern provinces. Talking with the United Press

SANTA MONICA, Oct. 12. [To the Editor of The Register:—] Mr. Hoover has had many a tough break during the many weeks he has been in, but just kinder looking it over from all angles, I believe that this last week was his most successful one in a long time. I think he just rounded all those big bankers up and said: "Now, listen, this thing has got past a joke. You birds got to get in here and help me do something. I been helping you out long enough. Now if Big Business wants a Republican administration Big Business better start helping a Republican administration or else!"

ship and reinstatement to the state bar.

Asked if a prison term might not give district attorneys and other public officials a better understanding of human nature, Keyes said:

"It wouldn't hurt them, it would certainly make them more human."

A moment later, however, he apparently changed his mind.

"Prison doesn't help anybody," he said. "I don't think it helped me either spiritually, morally, mentally or physically. I'm afraid, however, there is no substitute for prison. They're building them better and bigger all the time."

Blames Ignorance
Lack of education, Keyes declared, is what is filling prisons.

"You'd be surprised," he said.

ONE CENT A DAY PAYS UP TO $100 A MONTH

The Postal Life & Casualty Insurance Co., 11175 Dierks Building, Kansas City, Mo., is offering a new accident policy that pays up to $100 a month for 24 months for disability and $1,000.00 for death—costs less than 1c a day—$3.50 a year. Over $5,000 already have this protection. Men, women and children, ages 10 to 70, eligible. Send no money. Simply send name, address, age, beneficiary's name and relationship and they will send this policy on 10 days' FREE inspection. No examination is required. This offer is limited, so write them today.

"at the number of men in prison who can't even read or write."

Others besides Warden James B. Holohan who wished Keyes good luck were Captain of the Yard John H. Carpenter and Captain of the Guard James A. Bledsoe.

"He was one of the best men we ever had in here," Holohan said.

Since 1903, when he became a deputy district attorney, and 1924, when he was elected chief prosecutor, his fiery attacks upon criminals sent 8000 of them to prison.

Problem at Prison

Two thousand of them, murderers, stickup men, burglars, crooked brokers, conspirators, were still in San Quentin when Keyes entered.

These men, to many of whom club and knife were not new weapons, presented a problem to Keyes and his guards.

Would they remember and seek revenge? Would the man mainly responsible for their imprisonment be found some day in a mass of rioting convicts, beaten or killed before guards could intervene?

Keyes went to prison unafraid.

He remained so.

Perhaps his very lack of fear prevented an attack, or perhaps those he had sent to prison merely smiled and said, "There's a long road—"

At any rate, instead of remaining cooped up, looking from the prison library windows into the recreation yard to meet hateful glares, Keyes took up the life of an ordinary convict. He mingled with the men, and received not so much as a mean look.

VINEYARDISTS TO FACE TRIAL
LOS ANGELES, Oct. 12.—(UP)—Five executives of the California Vineyards company, a Chicago concern, face trial in federal court tomorrow on charges of conspiracy to violate the Volstead act. They are Carl A. Futter, chairman of the board; Zeno and M. J. Futter, directors; Thomas Stone, Pacific coast manager; U. F. Fredericks, warehouse manager, and J. W. Lowenberg and J. S. Payne, salesmen.

ARREST YOUTH ON CHARGE OF PILFERING AUTO

Charged with stealing four automobile tires and a battery from a car parked back of the Karo hotel on East Fourth street, Saturday night, Charles Paul LaPrelle, 20, student of 107 East Walnut street, is at liberty on $50 bail, pending a hearing.

He was arrested by Bert Dawson, of the merchant patrol and C. W. Wolford of the Santa Ana police department and the tires were recovered. The battery was found near the car.

After being released on bail, LaPrelle is reported to have confessed that he stole the equipment.

The car was the property of Mrs. A. B. Edmondson, who had just arrived here from Texas to visit with relatives who operate the Karo hotel.

ARREST FOUR AFTER DANCE DISTURBANCE

Four Santa Ana Mexicans, who went out to the dance at Seventeenth street and the Garden Grove road last night, with a supply of liquor, according to the sheriff's office, were today awaiting hearings in Justice Kenneth Morrison's court on charges of possession of liquor.

They were rounded up by Deputy Snodgrass and Virgoe, after they are asserted to have been raising a disturbance at the dance. They gave the names of Frank Herrera, 29; Joe Munoz, 26; Jose Muro, 19, and Ruben Salla, 24.

on a truck with his father, H. E. Shuman, of Huntington Beach. The car went over a high embankment and the son was killed instantly. The father suffered a broken arm and other injuries to the body and face.

The family reside at 221 Franklin street, Huntington Beach and young Shuman was a graduate of the Huntington Beach high school. He was well known in the beach city having been reared there and was a member of the tennis team in high school before coming to Santa Ana to the junior college. He was the eldest son and leaves besides his parents two sisters and a brother.

Funeral services have been planned for Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock, in Huntington Beach, The Rev. J. G. Hurst will have charge of the service. Inquest into the death was scheduled for today at Bakersfield.

Pat Maloney, six years old son of Mr. and Mrs. Dan E. Maloney of 930 South Broadway, Santa Ana, was cut above the eye when the car in which he was riding, Saturday afternoon, collided with a machine operated by Anna V. Wilson, of 4531 East Fourth street, Los Angeles. The accident occurred at Seventeenth street and Lincoln Boulevard.

Franklin Griffin, who presided at Mooney's trial, all urged his pardon.

Mrs. Rena Mooney, wife of the convicted man, made a dramatic appearance.

"I heard my husband sentenced to death," she said. "I am here only because Frank Oxman, the main witness against Tom, was not used against me. If Tom is guilty, I too am guilty."

Charles M. Fickert, who prosecuted Mooney, had been invited to the meeting but did not appear. Before the meeting thousands joined in a parade up Market street, passing the corner of Steuart street where in 1916 the parade was bombed and 10 persons killed.

A. F. OF L. TO PONDER OVER DRY PROBLEM

vital question of large scale public works to relieve unemployment were among the important subjects before the committee.

Three Proposals
Woll and his helpers had before them three anti-prohibition proposals.

One by the Tacoma, Wash., central labor council would nullify the Eighteenth amendment by repealing the Volstead act. A second, by Edward Flore, Robert B. Hesketh, Emanuel Kovelski, Conrad Schott and Agnes M. Quinn of the hotel and restaurant employees union, asked repeal of the Eighteenth amendment and substitution of state control on the Canadian plan. The third, written by the executive council of the federation, headed by President William Green, demanded immediate modification of the Volstead act to legalize 2.75 per cent beer by weight.

A proposal to repeal the Volstead act was believed to have no chance at all. It was believed possible, but not probable, that the Eighteenth amendment repeal would be approved in addition to the beer resolution.

Green's Opinion

The fact that legalized beer was considered politically possible, while a resolution against the amendment would accomplish little in the way of concrete results, was believed to have an important bearing on the committee's deliberations.

"A favorable congress could legalize beer in 48 hours," President Green said. "Immediately an estimated million men or more would find jobs building and remodeling breweries, in transportation, manufacture and in dozens of allied lines. Just as the automobile industry ended the 1921 depression, I believe the beer industry would provide the stimulus to end this one."

"On the other hand, amending the constitution is a slow job. Three or four depressions might come and go before it was done. What we want is a new industry now."

Police News

Thomas Patrick McDonald, 18, was arrested in the 1400 block on North Garnsey street late yesterday and lodged in the county jail on a vagrancy charge. Residents of the neighborhood notified police that the man was acting in a strange manner.

Thieves who broke into the apartment of Miss Anna Black, Apartment No. 10, Broadway Apartments, Third and Broadway, some time last night stole a purse containing $18 in cash, according to a report made to the city police.

Two automobiles, stolen, were recovered by Santa Ana police over the week end. A car registered to James C. Wilson, of 611 Coronado street, Long Beach, was found in front of 1040 West First street yesterday and a car registered to J. W. Porter, 1609 Simpson street, Fresno, was recovered Saturday night, according to police reports.

Six small boys, accused of burglarizing the Gibson bakery, at 1123 South Main street, several days ago, and stealing doughnuts, were arrested by Santa Ana police over the week end. All were released to their parents and are to appear in the city court this afternoon for a hearing.

after the conference, the ambassador said:

Denies Territorial Designs

"I cannot be emphasized too much that my country has no territorial designs on Manchuria. I am afraid that this suspicion exists in some quarters, but it is without foundation."

"There can be no war between Japan and China. These two peoples of the same racial group will not fight each other. I am sure that Japan and China can settle their dispute peacefully by direct negotiation."

Debutchi was confident that his government was eager to withdraw its troops into the Manchurian railway treaty zone as soon as this could be done without exposing Japanese nationals in Manchuria to danger. Debutchi was unable to say when Japanese troops would be withdrawn.

POLICE MAKE EIGHT LIQUOR ARRESTS HERE

Eight men were arrested by Santa Ana police officers over the week end on liquor charges, most of which charged drunkenness.

John D. Spiker, 30, charged with being drunk and begging, was arrested at 11:30 p. m. Saturday.

F. D. Durkee, 23, Santa Ana truck driver, was arrested by Officer Hantsberger, when he was found sitting in a car. His hand had been cut, and a window had been broken out of the car.

Blaine Cox, 37, was arrested at Fourth and French streets Saturday night on a drunk charge, by Officer Foster.

Jesus Castro was charged with possession of liquor when officers found a small amount of whisky on his person. He was attending a dance at the time, late Saturday night.

W. I. (Red) Nichols was arrested at Fifth and French streets at 9 p. m. Saturday by Officer W. A. Swain on a drunk charge.

C. W. DeVoe, of 1017 North Parson street, was taken into custody by Officers Steward and Prichard Saturday night for being drunk. He was raising a disturbance at his home, according to a police report.

DEATHS

A WORD OF COMFORT

Beware of cherishing in your life a sense of justified bitterness for it is poisonous and will kill your love for any but yourself.

The sense of loss will stimulate your struggle to be fit for the reunion still in store. Grief may taste like poison but it is potent, when brought close to God, to sweeten and to deepen and to empower your life.

Give Him the chance to guide and bless you. He suffers with you and would spare you pain if you could grow brave and strong without it.

No man is so far from heaven who has not struggled for his faith.

SURGEON TELLS HIS FAITH IN IMMORTALITY

Emphasizing an absolute faith in immortality, the faith in the perpetuity of the things unseen, Dr. A. B. Cooke, noted surgeon of Los Angeles, delivered a most interesting lecture-sermon at the First Methodist church of Santa Ana yesterday. He announced he was not a preacher, but he took a text from Corinthians, wherein the author emphasizes that those things which are seen are temporal, and those things which are not seen are eternal.

Dr. Cooke spoke throughout as a scientist, and his language to some extent was technical but meaningful. He differentiated in the opening between fact and truth—that fact was a scientific proposition, demonstrable, but it was the truth back of the fact which gave the fact significance. In the course of his talk he said in part:

"Not long ago there grew up a terrific storm on the ocean, and all ships made for a certain landlocked harbor for safety. When the storm blew over, a census was taken of the ships to see what had occurred. It was found that all ships which in the timidity of their masters had run into the docks or anchored close in to shore, were pounded to pieces and lost. Those which had sought the deep water and tied themselves up on all sides with anchors to hold themselves rigid were also lost. It was found that the only form of anchorage which acted successfully was one by means of a long, strong flexible chain which would allow the vessel to ride the waves and those were the only ones which came through the storm unharmed."

Useful Anchorage
"My thought is that I vision a form of anchorage which will be useful, which will act as a degree of comfort and safety to some of those who may be adrift in the present tempest or controversy."

"We see and administer to the body, but we cannot understand it. The spirit is the highest conception of mind. Some conception of spirit is an universal heritage. It is impossible to conceive of the body without mind or spirit. "Just let us bear this in mind,—life lives on life. It involves very certainly, death, disintegration and destruction. It used to be thought that life and life processes were maintained by chemical action alone. The physics of today teaches something different, something new. Now instead of molecules and atoms being the foundation of matter, living matter as well as inanimate matter, we know that the atom is divided is capable of division into electricity. We know that each atom is composed of a central nucleus, positive element, and the negative areas are called the electrons."

Makes Comparison

"All matter, living or dead, is composed of electrical energy. Electricity when released, we know travels in wave lengths or frequencies. Many of these wave lengths are known, and have been classified. It is necessary to give free rein to our imagination if we are to follow the wave length idea from its material basis and see where it leads us. It is not necessary to use instruments of precision to do this."

"Let us set up a ladder, a superstructure, and conceive that each of the rungs of that ladder are wave lengths. The first one of these would be sound. It is the molecular action of molecules. The second rung would be the wave length of the radio field. The third rung would be the wave length of heat, and then would be that of light. But we know that before light is reached, between heat rung and light rung are the wave length of infra-red. The X-ray rung comes next after that of light. Then comes the radium rung and following that is the rung of the cosmic wave, which we have heard so much of lately from Dr. Robert Millikan. Dr. Millikan says this wave is very, very much shorter even than the wave length of radium. It is very, very much more powerful and more penetrating. The next rung would be that of thought or mind. The moral or ethical wave length would be the next rung. It is in the realm of pure speculation, it is true, it is a shorter band or wave length of frequency which furnishes us another rung."

"We must accept, we must believe, many things we cannot explain. We cannot hope to understand it all. Let us not be afraid of words, it doesn't make any difference whether you call it creative activity, evolution, or what?" In closing, he said, the next rung and last one, is the one of consciousness and that all these are dependent upon the principle of law and order. He then brought out the indestructibility of energy, that according to the same law it indicates the immortality of life. He then emphasized that this corruption must put on incorruption, and this mortality must put on immortality."

OFFICER GETS CODE BOOK IN LIQUOR CASE

There are some 30 Santa Ana residents who had code numbers for their bottleless telephone calls, who can throw away the numbers, following the arrest of Melvin L. Price, 24, of St. Louis street, Long Beach, by Constable Jess Elliott Saturday night.

Elliott not only arrested Melvin with six gallons of whiskey, he reported, but also confiscated a little red book, which gave the names and addresses of the Santa Ana persons who it is believed were customers, together with the key numbers they were to use in placing their orders.

The liquor confiscated was found in a car which Price was driving. Elliott said. The arrest was made near Sunset Beach, on the Coast highway.

The liquor was locked up in the constable's office here and Price is being held for federal authorities.

ASSOCIATION PLANS WORK ON S. A. RIVER

Directors of the Water Conservation association, meeting Friday at Riverside, appointed Francis Cutler, president, and Directors George S. Hinckley, R. D. Skelley and W. W. Hoy, the latter from Santa Ana, as a committee to secure the services of an engineer for preparation of plans for extending the works in the upper Santa Ana canyon for flood control and conservation of water. Funds for construction are available from a state appropriation and money allocated by River, Riverside county and San Bernardino county.

The board decided to protest the inclusion of the lands of the association in the proposed San Bernardino Valley Conservation district, as the directors believed that the association and other organizations already engaged in conserving water of the Santa Ana River and its tributaries were already fully organized and prepared to carry on the work, and that there was no necessity for a new organization for this purpose.

PERIOD STYLES AND FURNITURE IN PLAY

"Cold Molasses," the three-act comedy to be given at the high school October 16 under the auspices of the P.-T. A. is enacted by a very capable cast, many of whom were formerly featured at the Pasadena community playhouse, it is reported.

One feature of the play is the costumes, which are authentic copies of the styles of 1900. The furniture and other props used in the setting are all of that period.

Charles S. Travers, producer of "Cold Molasses," in speaking of this play says, "This hilarious comedy was selected for our first production because of the great number of laughs it contains. Also because it is entirely clean comedy that the entire family can enjoy."

Dr. George A. Warner, president of the Parent-Teachers association states that tickets are now on sale at the Santa Ana Book store for this performance. Proceeds from the seat sale are to be used for the student loan fund.

Before a crowd of more than 600 that filled the large lodge room in the new Masonic temple here to overflowing Saturday night, members of the regent team of the famous 233 club of Hollywood, put on the third degree work of the order at the meeting of Jubilee lodge.

It was one of the outstanding events of Masonry in the new temple and was followed by a banquet in the large dining room of the temple which was filled to capacity. Entertainment at the banquet was exceptionally good and was put on by members of the club which had previously given the degree work. The turkey dinner which was prepared by George Demitriou, was served to 600 Masons by a committee in charge of Jack Kahler and Dr. Willis P. Baker.

H. C. Collins, master of Jubilee lodge, welcomed members of the fraternity from all parts of Southern California, as the meeting got under way.

Included in the group of 80 members of the 233 club which so ably handled the work and entertainment of the evening, were Dr. L. L. Liscum, master of the club lodge, Leroy Johnson, president of the club, who is also president of the Wampus club and director of publicity for Universal City, John Prince, secretary of the club, and Louis Chaudet, master emeritus of the club lodge and former Tustin resident, who acted as master of cere-

Robert Speed, secretary of the host lodge, was chairman of the dinner program and presented an electric clock to Dr. Liscum and a quart of grape juice to each member of the 233 club.

Lemon Must Serve Six Months in Jail

Norman Lemon, Santa Ana prize fighter, has been ordered to serve six months in the county jail after appearing before Superior Judge James L. Allen in connection with his alleged violation of a five year probation term granted him in 1925.

Probation was continued in effect and Lemon is to be allowed to labor on public works while in jail. The case on which he was granted probation in 1925 involved a burglary charge and a one year county jail sentence.

The probation report shows that Lemon has been involved in petty theft and liquor cases.

BABY WINNERS ON SCREEN AT THEATER HERE

Motion pictures of the winning babies in the Register-Neely-Fox theaters baby contest will be shown on the screen of the Fox West Coast theater for an entire week, starting today. The film was not received in time to start as originally announced.

At the same time, it was announced, voting for the grand winner also will start today and persons who have accumulated ballots during the past several weeks, when the preliminaries were being held, are asked to cast their ballots in a box in the lobby of the theater.

For four weeks the contest has been held, three babies winning each week with the exception of the final week, when there were only two winners, making a total of 11 qualified for the finals. These are competing for the grand prize, a $50 deposit in the Commercial National bank here, to be left on deposit until the child is of college age, at which time the money will have been increased to about $250.

Motion pictures of the babies were made on the lawn of the Santa Ana high school last week and the pictures are particularly good, it is reported. Mothers of the babies were given a preview of the picture Saturday morning at the theater.

There are prizes for all the babies in the picture. The Neely store is awarding handsome gifts to the 10 babies other than the grand winner.

U. C. L. A. OFF FOR EAST TOMORROW

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 12.—(UP)—The University of California at Los Angeles football team will leave tomorrow for Evanston, Ill., where next Saturday the Bruins meet Northwestern university in an intercollegiate game.

Coast fans concede the Bruins only the remotest chance of whipping the Purple outfit, basing their lone hope on the possibility that Notre Dame had left Northwestern in a battered condition. The Bruins, on the other hand, were idle last Saturday.

The squad will take workouts enroute at Tucson, Ariz., and McPherson, Kan., arriving in Chicago Friday morning.

S. A. Justice Is Lawyer After Six Trys

There is one thing that Kenneth E. Morrison, justice of the peace here, believes in—that's persistence. Therefore, Judge Morrison is today sporting his official notice that he has been admitted to the bar of California.

For four years and through six examinations the local justice has gone to get his sheepskin and prior to this last attempt, has had to "grin and bear" the announcement that he had failed.

Technicalities caused Morrison to lose out in all his attempts before, but his persistence has won in the end.

TEACHERS MAY MARRY WITHOUT BEING 'FIRED'

Orange county school teachers contemplating marriage or proposals thereof may look at romance with glasses of a slightly more rosy hue as a result of an opinion just rendered by Deputy District Attorney W. F. Menton that when teachers enter the married state they cannot be required to make an exit from the school room.

Menton's opinion resulted from the refusal of an Anaheim teacher to be dismissed when she married, although the school board there has established a rule that would require her dismissal. Such a rule is void and a contract containing such a provision could not be enforced, being opposed to public policy under statutes and court decisions, Menton told the board. The status of the instructor as a permanent teacher is not affected by her marriage, he said.

In Santa Ana the position has been taken by Dr. Percy R. Davis, school superintendent, that selection of teachers should be based primarily on qualifications, with a view to employing the best instructors obtainable. In view of the present depression, however, he has suggested that when qualifications are equal in the case of a married and single teacher seeking the same position, the equitable course would be to favor the unmarried teacher.

There are a number of married women teachers in the Santa Ana school system although in recent years the boards of education have not employed a very large number of teachers who were married at the time of their appointments.

ENROLLMENT BOOSTED AT NIGHT SCHOOL

In nearly every case enrollment in night classes conducted by the audit education department of the Santa Ana schools has increased, it was learned today from the city schools administration office. This means that classes originally offered will be continued, with a few exceptions.

The enrollment has reached 715 at the high school for Monday and Tuesday nights with, 232 at Lathrop on Tuesdays and Wednesdays, and 429 at Willard, giving a grand total of 1366 enrollments in the night classes in comparison with 1052 enrollments last week. This does not include enrollments in day classes, the work in the jail or in the classes among Mexican adults, which approximates an additional 600.

It has been decided best to discontinue the following classes: vocational guidance, at Lathrop (most of those who have come to this class having joined the mental hygiene class on Tuesday nights at the high school); elementary high school science at Lathrop, drama at Willard and the photoplay at Willard.

Some changes have been made. The piano class has been divided; the advanced section meeting at Lathrop on Wednesdays in the music room, and the beginning group at Willard on Thursdays in room 236. The verse speaking choir is now meeting on Tuesdays in room 40, at Lathrop. The German class is meeting both Wednesday and Thursday nights at Willard. The class in music appreciation on Wednesdays at Lathrop has been changed to a course in sight singing, meeting at the same time and same place with Mrs. Dolely Harper as teacher.

Because of specific requests additional classes are being organized in criminology for peace officers on Thursdays at Willard, chemistry for trades people on Thursdays at Willard and a class in English for foreigners at Willard on Wednesday nights.

FULLERTON PASSES HUMBLE GLENDALE

FULLERTON, Oct. 12.—Coach Nunn's Fullerton Yellowjackets were effective in a forward passing attack that scored two touchdowns against Glendale junior college here Saturday after line plunging had failed to gain against a tough, stubborn line which the visitors presented. Fullerton won 15-0.

On three different occasions Fullerton was within the five yard line and failed to buck the ball across for a tally. The Fullerton team, as in former years, has developed a consistent passing attack.

The first Fullerton score came in the second quarter as the result of two long passes—the first of which put the winners in scoring position, and the last which resulted in a score when Fred West carried a nicely executed pass across the line. McHatton, Fullerton's right end, scored in the third quarter as the result of another pass.

On one of the unsuccessful efforts to buck the ball across the line, West made a drop kick for three points.

OPPORTUNITIES OFFERED IN MANAGEMENT

In order to accommodate theater employees who desire to study theater management, this course in the fall program of evening classes under direction of the adult education department has been changed to an afternoon period, from 8:15 to 9:30 p. m. on Tuesdays at the Willard school, it was announced today.

Norman Sprowl, Fox theater manager for Santa Ana is the class teacher.

Subject matter of the course includes office training, detail filing and keeping of information records.

Because of the detail in theater management, and because a theater's business department is declared to be the best in record keeping and management, any business can learn many things of importance from a theater management course, it is said, and this is one reason the course was selected as one of the classes which will run until December 10. Sales and production are the big items in theater management which also stresses business management.

COURT ORDERS DON'T SEEM TO MEAN MUCH TO THIS MAN

Life may have been just one ejection after another for Charles Free of Dana Point, but when he selects a place to live he apparently means that he doesn't want to reside somewhere else. That was the conclusion drawn today after Free had received a 10-day county jail sentence from Superior Judge James L. Allen Saturday for contempt of court in failing to stay away from Dana Point property to which the court had decreed he had no title.

The court suspended the sentence with the proviso that Free must keep off the Dana Point property in question. Free's experience with the court in this matter began away back in 1915, when Judge Z. B. West, deceased, decided that Free and other defendants were not entitled to possession of property to which the Dana Point company was seeking to quiet title. Since that time, the records show, Free has re-entered the property four times, each instance being accompanied by attendant court proceedings and by the removal of Free to other parts.

The present difficulty began on September 22, when the court instructed Free to appear on an order to show cause. He appeared yesterday. Perhaps the case is closed.

West, Santa Ana; fees committee, L. A. West, Santa Ana; Roger C. Dutton, Anaheim; and Carl C. Cowles, Santa Ana; court forms, M. G. Harvey, Santa Ana; Roy V. Shafer, Santa Ana; and Fred R. Jacobs, Santa Ana; and Tom E. Pickrell, Placentia.

DOCTOR AND FAMILY HURT IN ACCIDENT

Dr. Garnet B. Grant, San Clemente physician and hospital operator, and his family were patients in that Spanish village establishment Saturday as the result of an auto accident that occurred a mile north of the city Friday night.

Dr. and Mrs. Grant and their three sons, John, 13; Garnet, 10; and Robert, 8; were returning to their home when the car hit a wet spot in the road and turned over twice. The boys were cut and bruised. Mrs. Grant had her shoulder dislocated and the physician suffered a broken nose.

On arriving at the hospital, Dr. Grant found that a short time previously Fred Breaux, of Long Beach, had suffered a severely cut hand in an accident and was in immediate need of medical attention. As a result, Breaux's needs were attended to for the next two hours, and then the physician started work on his family and himself.

CORY TO TALK ON FARM BUREAU HOUR

William Cory, assistant farm advisor for Orange county, will be on the air tonight from 6:45 until 7, as speaker on the regular Monday night program sponsored by the Farm Bureau. These programs are well received by all radio listeners and have become almost indispensable to ranchers in this county.

Cory has not announced yet what his topic will be, but he will talk on some phase of farming connected with his department of the Farm Bureau.

Court Notes

The will of the late Carrie E. Willoughby, who died on October 6 in Santa Ana, has been filed for probate in superior court here. The estate is valued at not over $10,000. Flora J. Warner, daughter, was named as executrix in the will. The surviving husband is Charles H. Willoughby. The will made a $50 bequest to the Foreign Missionary society of the First Methodist church here.

George Louis Corevorn has filed suit in superior court to secure a divorce from Irma Mae Corevorn, whom he accused of desertion. The couple married on September 23, 1930, and separated on October 8, 1930, the complaint said.

The case of Marshall Bealey, of Placentia, charged with non-support of wife, a felony, was continued on the request of the defendant in Justice Kenneth Morrison's court today until November 13.

CHEST EFFORTS SUCCESSFUL IN OTHER CITIES

That Community Chests throughout the nation are this year taking on the habit of success in the face of adversity is indicated in a report received by the local Chest officials from the National Association of Community Chests, of New York City, and released today by Harry D. Riley, campaign chairman of the Santa Ana Chest campaign.

"The first four cities completing their fall campaigns for community funds," said Riley, "have turned in reports which indicate determination carried through to victory. We are especially interested in the report from Elgin, Illinois, a city but little larger than Santa Ana, which went out to secure $71,396, and closed its effort with a total of more than $81,000 pledged, which is larger by $10 than any fund of the sort previously raised in Elgin.

"Green Bay, Wisconsin, is another city of our class, claiming $7,000 as against our $6,000. In that city, the goal was $41,400, but the campaign closed on September 28, with more than $40,000 pledged. Last year Green Bay's Chest raised a total of $32,628. This year's amount, raised in the face of difficult circumstances, nearly doubles last year's giving.

"Wichita Falls, Texas, with a goal of $59,915, raised $61,660 in a vigorous four-day campaign. Duluth, Minnesota, with over 100,000 population, asked for a total of $300,000, and closed its campaign on September 30 with $319,000 pledged.

"When we stop to consider the fact that in each of these cities conditions this year are hard, and unemployment problems serious, it ought to stir us up to do our utmost here in Santa Ana to show an equally good spirit in our own campaign. Our total amount asked is not heavy for a city of our class and ability, and it can easily be raised if we get together in the spirit of victory for the final effort next week."

Thief Gets Three Razors in Burglary

Clarence Burrier, best factory worker, who lives in a shed at Fruit and Logan streets, left his home for just 30 minutes early last night, but that was long enough for a thief to enter and steal part of his clothing and other articles, according to a report made to the police last night.

Three razors, a suit of clothes, a pair of scissors and a pair of cuff links were reported stolen. Entrance was made through the front door of the shed, it was reported.

'Y' DIRECTOR TELLS AIMS OF ORGANIZATION IN BASEBALL LEAGUE GAMES

BUENA PARK, Oct. 12.—A. J. Raitt, Y. M. C. A. director in Orange county entering on 12 years of service, said Sunday evening in the Congregational church that he was a church member first. He spoke of the birth of the association and the true ideal for which it stands.

"The Y. M. C. A. is dependent on the volunteer," Raitt said. "If we do not give of ourselves as well as our money, our Christian life must suffer. These boys and girls are ours, so let's join hands. Thirty-one of the leaders are boys brought up in the organization sharing experiences in Jesus Christ. We must build up friendship between the boy and the leader so that in stress the bond is strong enough to bridge the difference in the age."

"Out test is to re-interpret His life to these children and to help them find Him and invest their lives for Him."

FULLERTON, Oct. 12.—"Justification by Faith" from the Book of Romans was the message which The Rev. Mr. Hawes said in the Fullerton First Baptist church delivered to his congregation at the regular Sunday morning services.

The Rev. Mr. Hawes said in part: "Our study this morning emphasizes God's provision for a guilty world. In the first 17 verses of the first chapter, Paul introduces himself and his Gospel. He declares his intention to visit Rome for three reasons: To satisfy the longing of his own heart; to impart a blessing to the believers at Rome and to discharge a debt. He declares also that the gospel which he proclaims, reveals God's plan for bestowing righteousness and justifying sinners."

He continued by saying that mankind stands in the same need. That every mouth may be stopped and the whole world become guilty before God. He mentioned the discovery made in 1:18-22, how the Gentiles as a nation, got away from God and the awful results which followed.

The pastor said that chapter two showed that the Jews were no better. That both Jew and Gentile sinned and turned away from God, bringing a sweeping condemnation of all mankind. All of which emphasizes the need of "Justification by Faith."

He spoke of the discovery in this book, God's plan and method of justification. He said, "The fountain of grace is God's Grace, Tit. 2:11. 'For the Grace of God, which bringeth salvation has appeared to all men.' Rom. 3:24—'Being justified freely by his grace.'"

The Rev. Mr. Hawes said that the basis or ground of justification was the "Blood of Christ." Rom. 3:25—"Whom God hath set forth to be propitiation through faith in His blood." Rom. 5:9—"Much more then, being now justified by His blood."

SHANGHAI CUSTOMS OFFICER IS VISITOR AT NEWPORT BEACH

NEWPORT BEACH, Oct. 12.—Nobody knows what's going to happen in China, not even those who have lived there for most of their lives, according to Edwin P. Williams, who has been in the customs service at Shanghai for about 20 years and who is now visiting here.

Williams has been calling on E. L. Sherman, prominent Balboa, who was a classmate and a fraternity brother at Massachusetts Institute of Technology. Soon after leaving college Williams went into the Chinese customs service, his father having been American consul at Shanghai previously.

Foreign governments collect the customs at Shanghai and other Chinese ports, the customs revenue being security for loans made by these governments for railway buildings and other purposes.

Every five years these customs officials get one year's vacation and Williams is spending the 12 months ending next April in America with Mrs. Williams.

CHRIST SPIRIT DISCUSSED BY REV. SORENSON

ORANGE, Oct. 12.—Opening his morning sermon with the declaration: "If any man has not the Spirit of Christ, he is none of his," Rev. J. S. Sorenson of the Mennonite Brethren in Christ Church, spoke in part:

"We have various ideas of what the Spirit of Christ, or the Holy Spirit is and when he is present in our worship. To some people the Spirit of Christ is not present unless there is some demonstration. This is not, however, a manifestation of the Spirit of Christ. The Spirit of Christ is wrapped up in the spirit of love. Not an emotional love but the love which responds to a need without asking one his nationality, or to what lodge or church he may belong.

"The world will have a hard time to discover the Spirit of Christ where there is no spirit of sacrifice. When we are willing to obey the Spirit of Christ we are willing to listen to and obey those in authority over us and even our fellow church members. The Spirit of Christ is a spirit of humility. When Jesus was sought to be taken prisoner he stepped out and said, 'Here am I.' The Spirit of Christ is the spirit of hope. Our example to the world is often our spirit of joy—our capacity to turn sorrow into joy.

"The Spirit of Christ is not a spirit of condemnation to the world. Jesus never condemned sinners but it is recorded that they were attracted to him and felt a welcome in his presence. We only receive the Spirit of Christ by realizing our own insufficiency, not by assuming a self-righteous attitude."

COLORADO MAN GIVES SERMON AT EL MODENA

EL MODENA, Oct. 12.—At the morning service at El Modena, Ben Hager sang "Face to Face." The address was given by the Rev. Albert E. Stuart, of Colorado. He read as a lesson, Exodus 2:11-20. He said in part:

"Because you people have an opening, you have received many applications. It isn't preachers or missionaries we need, as God calls men to be elders, and Sunday school teachers, and members of finance committees. The success of the church depends on the faithfulness of those who seem to be among the least. God will give the call for people to fill the places. People from California go to Kansas and people from Kansas go to California, to go to school, I, one time, saw the picture of two mules, in two different pastures, with a fence between them. Each mule was reaching over the fence to eat the grass in the other pasture. The grass which is away from home always looks better.

"We can be made successful without moving. We put too much emphasis on things farther away from us. Moses was born in Egypt, he was raised an Israelite, and he was working with his own people. God has the right man for all the positions but the right man doesn't always act the way God wants him to do. He sometimes makes mistakes. I once knew a man in Springfield, who never made mistakes, in his own estimation. If you can't get along in your own church or community, you can never get along anywhere else.

"Moses was God's man, and he was called. You know the story, how Pharaoh's daughter found him and took him to the court to be educated and through that education the children of Israel were freed, which Pharaoh would not have had happen, Moses was miraculously preserved until he was needed. God not only has the right man, He also has the right time for him to act. Moses was not commanded to go, but it says, 'he went out one day.' He had been at the head of the armies of Egypt, and as he saw these men having differences, he drew his sword, and cut off the head of the Egyptian. He dug a trench in the soft sand, and rolled him in, and went off and left him. But first he looked this way and that way, so that he might be sure that no one was looking at him. His first service for God was not done in the time God had appointed.

"Some have got away from God's prompting. God does prompt us to service. Once at the Kansas yearly meeting, they had finished taking the offering, and one of the women on the platform, who had worked on the frontier in Colorado, gave a testimony. She had been prompted to give her testimony before the offering, but had not done so, and several came up after the meeting was over and put in an extra offering. The next year, at yearly meeting, the same women was at the meeting, and the Spirit of God prompted her to give a valuable ring which her uncle had given her, as an offering. She arose and told them about it, how she had no money, and would give her ring. It may have seemed foolish to some people, but that night $3,000 was taken up in the baskets, and a man gave fifty dollars for the ring, and gave it back to her."

KEARNS IN FORM

Jack Dempsey is said to be regaining his championship form. Do not think for a minute that Jack Kearns isn't in form, too. Dapper Jack, manager of Benny Leonard, refused to sign for Leonard's first comeback match in the Garden Oct. 16 with Paulie Walker unless the Garden fixed the scale of prices at $1 to $10. PACHYDERMS COME IN

With the first chilly blast from the north, pachyderms have begun to lumber into Manhattan in droves seeking winter housing. M. Jacques Curley, master of the mastodons, reports that he has handled the employment applications of more than 200 of the animals in the last week or so. Just wait until it snows; there will be elephant tracks all over the sidewalks of New York.

THE MARK STANDS

During the field meets held in several major league cities toward the end of the baseball season efforts were made to better the record for throwing a baseball, 426 feet 9 1/2 inches, made years ago at Redland Field by Sheldon Lejeune. Ben Chapman tossed it 392 feet 10 inches, and that was as close as anybody came to Lejeune's mark. The old-timers must have been good.

FORCE OF TRADITION

Purdue and Indiana play every year for the honor of carrying home an old oaken bucket. Michigan and Minnesota battle for possession of an old brown jug. A few years ago captains at the University of Colorado and the Colorado Aggies bet their shirt on the outcome of the game, and the custom has been continued. Illinois and Ohio, state universities, fight for ownership of a turtle called Illibuck. Princeton and Rutgers used to fight over the possession of a cannon that George Washington

FULLERTON AND PASADENA GRID MEN SURPRISE

Fullerton and Pasadena. Coast farm, overhauled, near high and preparatory league doormats last year, furnished the surprises as the 1931 conference football race opened last week.

Under the tutelage of Don Cruickshank, the rejuvenated Indians, who didn't win a game during their whole '30 campaign, scored a tremendously impressive 35-6 victory over Glendale. Fullerton limited the Dynamiters to two first downs while Elmer Pryor, Dick Joyce and Walt Ratt, tiny but speedy backs, ran amuck all afternoon.

Pasadena's 13-2 stand against the reputedly powerful San Diego eleven was entirely unexpected, and indicates either unusual strength at Pasadena this season or astonishing weakness at San Diego. Pasadena had been dumped in early season practice games by teams of questionable ability. San Diego had all its regulars in the lineup and they had to go the route at full speed to pull the game out of the fire in the last quarter, with Pasadena leading by virtue of safety.

Alhambra, co-favorite with San Diego to win the championship, was extended to nose out a scrappy Long Beach eleven, 13-6. This was Long Beach's first conference defeat since 1928. The Haries went down fighting, holding a 6-0 lead at half-time which the

Oilers Beat Laguna Nine In Baseball

Santa Ana's Hancock Oilers swung into their Sunday baseball program in earnest next week, with a contest definitely scheduled at their new South Main street park against the Los Angeles Potagers.

The Oilers, sponsored by Roy Langley, beat Laguna Beach, 15 to 8, in a brisk workout yesterday. "Kid" Stoner pitched six heats for the Santa Anans, allowing five runs. Sheppard hurled the seventh and Larry Hemus the last two. Laguna got two runs off Sheppard.

This team promises Santa Ana high grade ball every Sunday through the winter months. Laguna Beach 203 000 200-7 Santa Ana . . . 030 331 50x-15

Mrs. Marjorie Gladman Van Ryn, wife of the Davis Cup player, defeated Santa Ana's Josephine Cruickshank, 2-6, 6-4, 6-4, in the women's finals of the Biltmore hotel Invitational tennis tournament at Santa Barbara yesterday. Keith Gledhill beat Ellsworth Vines, national champion, in the men's finals, 3-6, 6-1, 6-0.

HEAVYWEIGHTS MEET TONIGHT IN BROOKLYN

BY DIXON STEWART
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—(UP)—Weather permitting and principals willing, the boxing bout which Jimmy Johnston has facetiously advertised as "the fight of the century" will be inflicted on a long suffering but suspicious public at Ebbets field, Brooklyn, tonight.

The "fight of the century" (or is it farce?) in reality, is a scheduled 15-round contest between Jack Sharkey, portly Boston squire and Primo Carnera, 260-pound Italian circus freak.

If reports from Promoter Johnston's prolific publicity department are accepted the fight is certain to provide a $250,000 crowd with thrills to make the Dempsey-Firpo battle appear no more exciting than a meeting of the Mudville Corners Whittling club.

Both the $250,000 crowd and the "cyclonic, breath-taking, soul stirring action" however, seem likely to prove nothing more than a press agent's dream.

When the match was first made for Chicago a year ago it was believed certain to attract a $600,000 gate. The courts prevented the contest when Johnston booked it in June and when it still looked like a $300,000 attraction.

Unsavory rumors occasioned by Sharkey's refusal to go through with the contest on October 1, even though X-rays of his alleged little finger injury revealed nothing more important than an imperfect job of manning, and Jack's miserable showing against Jimmie Walker have ruined the contest as a gate attraction.

Sharkey is quoted as 6 to 5 favorite to win with less wagering on the result than in any heavyweight bout of recent years.

COMPTON FAVORITE IN JAYCEE LEAGUE

Compton got off to a running start in defense of its Southern California Junior College conference football championship.

The Tartars routed Los Angeles, 31-0, Saturday, and now have a string of 18 games they have won or tied. Naturally they'll be favored to put the attack in motion.

Most of Santa Ana's regulars worked against the cadet collegians, Captain Floyd Blower, crippled triple threat halfback being a notable exception. Slow on the draw, they made a lot of meaningless yardage in the first quarter but soon buckled down to work and scored once in the second period, once in the third and twice in the fourth. A whole team of substitutes accounted for the final touchdown.

Punching off-tackle, the Saints carried the ball the length of the field in the first quarter, then left the ball on San Diego's 15-yard line. They started their first touchdown drive from the Academy's 40-yard stripe in the second period, "Porky" Bell ripping off 20 yards around his left end to put the attack in motion.

Bell and Bob Mitchell made it another first down on the 8-yard stripe. Herb Meyer crashed through to the 1-yard mark and Mitchell bucked it across. Maxey Wilson missed a try for extra point.

Bell's 50-yard return of a Cadet kick paved the way for the Saints' next score. He was finally stopped on the 15-yard mark from where Mitchell made 9 yards and Meyer the rest on a well executed reverse.

MRS. TOWNSEND BEATS MISS SAULSBERRY IN S. A. COUNTRY CLUB GOLF PLAY UPSET

When Mrs. J. L. Ainsworth steps up to the first tee next Sunday morning to defend her Santa Ana Country club golf championship her opponent will be Mrs. R. W. Townsend—not Miss Mary Salsberry, as everybody had anticipated. Miss Salsberry, who qualified for the Women's Nationals last year, was unexpectedly eliminated in the semi-finals last week by Mrs. Townsend, 3 and 1.

Mrs. Ainsworth was given a real fight herself but finally won, 2 up, from Miss Marguerite Way after Miss Way had squared the match on the fifteenth hole.

Miss Salsberry drove two balls out of bounds on the first tee and was never able to catch Mrs. Townsend who played splendid golf to score a merited victory. The winner shot a 91, Miss Salsberry 95.

The Ainsworth-Townsend championship round Sunday will begin at 10:30 a. m.

Mrs. J. L. McFadden and Mrs. Payne Talbert play the finals in the Defeated Flight. Mrs. McFadden beat Mrs. A. G. Flagg by default, while Mrs. Talbert vanquished Mrs. C. V. Doty, 4 and 3.

Results of mixed foursomes, which attracted a record entry of 36 Sunday, follow: Low gross—Miss Marguerite Way

SAINTS DEFEAT ARMY AND NAVY JAYCEES, 25-0

Santa Ana high school will plunge into its conference schedule next Saturday as an undefeated football team, a 14-6 win over Tustin Friday and a more convincing 25-0 decision over the San Diego Army and Navy Academy Junior college Saturday completing the pre-league program for Coach "Tex" Oliver's scholars.

Most of Santa Ana's regulars worked against the cadet collegians, Captain Floyd Blower, crippled triple threat halfback being a notable exception. DONS. PLAY 0-0 TIE; COMPTON NEXT

With their attention focused on next Saturday's game at Compton, in which they will battle the 1930 football champion against terrific odds, Coach Bill Cook and his Santa Ana junior college gridmen today began smothering their ineffectual opponents which bobbed up during their opening conference game at Long Beach Saturday, in which the Dons and Coach Oak Smith's Vikings fought into a 0-to-0 deadlock, with both elevens marring many chances to score.

This contest marked the fourth straight year that the Vikings have failed to cross the Santa Ana goal, but only the first in which Santa Ana has been unable to score against Long Beach.

Last-minute eligibility difficulties of Hubert Armstrong, end whom the Don mentor planned to start, forced Cook to remove Hideo Higashi from full back to end, where he saw action during prep days. Higashi's removal warranted a backfield combination of Dante Siracusa, quarter; Ervin Watkins and Jimmie Hall, halves; and Emmett Seacord, full, which had the Vikings in hot water several times during the first half.

Costly fumbles, packed in with a variety of surprises always present when two teams together attempt a pass, were responsible for the failure to score by both teams.

Dons Begin Strongly

Santa Ana started off strongly. Following Hall's return of the Viking kickoff to the 30-yard line, and a kick by Seacord to Edmundson, Long Beach quarter, the fireworks began. Hall recovered a fumble by Edmundson. Seacord and Siracusa worked the ball into Viking territory. A 12-yard pass, Seacord to Higashi, and an off-tackle play by Seacord placed the ball on the Long Beach 26-yard line, where Siracusa and Seacord continued their march until they lost the ball on downs on the Vikings' 20-yard mark.

Long Beach kicked to its own 40-yard line, and a second Santa Ana drive, led by Siracusa, Seacord and Hall, culminated when Seacord passed over the head of Higashi, standing on the Viking goal-line. Two warm threats to score, one made by Santa Ana in the second quarter and the other by Long Beach in the third, made the game interesting.

Inserting in their attack a well-grounded series of passing plays, the Dons had the Vikings up in the air throughout the entire first half, and especially during the opening moments of the second quarter, when, with the ball on the Vikings' 30-yard line, Hall reeled off 16 yards on a reverse, and then Seacord passed to Higashi, who caught the ball or Long Beach kicked out of dangerous territory to its 25-yard line, and another Santa Ana advance began, only to end when Edmundson blocked a pass over the goal.

Seacord started the Dons again when he intercepted a return pass on Long Beach's 47-yard line, but failure to make downs caused him to kick over the Viking goal. Following a return kick by Long Beach Seacord sailed through center for 11 yards to the Viking 38-yard line, and then made 8 more through right tackle. Doyle Gilbert, substituting for Seacord, passed to Siracusa, who scored on a 15-yard line, and line plunges by Seacord, together with a brilliant reverse by Don Smith, placed the ball within 8 yards of the Long Beach goal. Santa Ana, however, was forced to surrender the ball on downs just as the gun ended the first half.

Starting Lucius Conkey at end and moving Higashi to the backfield, Coach Cook saw his team experience one of its greatest scares in the third period. A 15-yard penalty on Santa Ana, followed by a poor kick by Higashi, gave Long Beach the pigskin on Santa Ana's 33-yard mark.

Fumble Saves Santa Ana
Led by Captain Crane and Sagerhorn, the Vikings marched to the Dons' 1-yard ribbon, where a break saved the day for Santa Ana. It was third down, and goal to go. Sagerhorn, hitting the center of the line, fumbled but quickly recovered the ball 6 yards from the Don goal. Edmundson fired a pass meant for the Santa Ana goal-line, but Harry Clayton, husky Don tackle, intercepted it and ruined the Viking chances.

The fourth quarter saw first one team and then the other in the limelight. Wayne Bartholomew, guard, recovered a Long Beach fumble on Santa Ana's 47-yard line, and

TROJANS AGAIN TEAM TO BEAT ON COAST GRID

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 12.—As the powerful Southern California eleven crushed another Northern team it became increasingly evident that Coach Howard Jones' Trojans are the boys to beat for the Pacific Coast conference championship.

Ory Mohler, quarterback, made four touchdowns and led his team to a 35 to 6 victory over Washington State college, at Los Angeles Saturday. It averaged a 7 to 6 win of the Cougars over Southern California at Pullman last year—a victory which brought the coast championship to "Babe" Hollingberry's men.

Crafty, fighting "Doc" Spears outmaneuvered Jimmie Phelan and his dashing Oregon eleven up-38-0 fans at Seattle. A bullet line 21-yard lefthanded forward pass by Don Watts to Bailey in the fourth period put the ball on Washington's 1-foot line. Joe Lillard, "Midnight Express," dived over the line on a quick cut-in play off left guard. Moeller converted.

Intercepted Pass Catches Game
Phelan sent Bledsoe and Hufford into the game and the Huskies hammered menacingly into Oregon territory. On Oregon's seven-yard line, Hufford attempted a short, flat pass but "Big Bill" Bowerman, left end, intercepted it, stumbled, fought and raced 87 yards to a touchdown and the game was in the bag.

There were several suggestions, but no unanimity as there was last year when "Sunny Jam" Bottomley, Cards' first baseman, was nominated for his batting failure. The lead in the somewhat spirited voting this year was held by young Paul Derringer, Cardinals' pitcher who twice failed Manager Charles (Gabby) Street.

Street gambled on Derringer and his kid pitcher lost to "Lefty" Grove in the first game. Street believed the series baptism had hardened Derringer so he tried him again against Grove. Where Derringer was touched for 11 hits in seven innings he walked himself out of victory in his second chance.

Some eastern delegates voted for "Chick" Hafey, Cardinals' left fielder who was good enough to win the National league batting championship but who managed to get only four hits in the six series games he played. Also, Hafey made an error which let in two runs in the sixth game.

Mountainous George Earnshaw, Athletics hurler, gained some support for his two pitching failures. He did have one victory in which he allowed only two hits, so he was eliminated as a candidate for "goat."

"Mickey" Cochrane, popular Athletics catcher who hit .348 in the season and only .160 in the series, was a long distance away from having been the star. Max Bishop, Athletics' second baseman and lead off hitter who made an average of only .148, and Catcher Jimmy Wilson of the Cards who threw the wrong way in the second game, also were considered.

One may be sure most votes will go to Derringer and Hafey as persistently as Alabama cast for Underwood.

The star selection was easy. John Leonard (Pepper) Martin. Martin's failure to hit in the sixth and seventh games were perfectly natural. He had been batting far above his head. But "Pepper" more than any one man won that series, so he's baseball's man of the year.

SCRIBES NAME DERRINGER AS SERIES 'GOAT'

BY L. S. CAMERON
(United Press Sports Editor)

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 12.—(UP)—Local baseball fans today joined fans of the entire nation in an attempt to select the "goat" of the world series.

There were several suggestions, but no unanimity as there was last year when "Sunny Jam" Bottomley, Cards' first baseman, was nominated for his batting failure. 'BIG GAME' OF PREP SCHEDULE DUE SATURDAY

BY EDDIE WEST
(Sports Editor of The Register)

They stepped up the practice tempo at Santa Ana and San Diego today as two anxious high school football squads entered "Big Game" week.

Saints and Hilltoppers, bitterest of prep rivals since 1905, meet here Saturday for the twenty-second time, and both teams were deadly serious when they started the first of their last few remaining practice hours.

Secret practices were ordered by Coach "Tex" Oliver of Santa Ana. This is the first time since he has been mentor here that Oliver closed the doors of Poly field to all press included, but it was a drastic order that Oliver planned to enforce with police if necessary.

Saint Prospects Brighter
Although Santa Ana looked only ordinary itself winning a pair of "breathers" from Tustin and San Diego Army and Navy Jayces, developments of the week-end buoyed Saint hopes appreciably. A supposedly strong San Diego eleven had to show everything in its bag to beat a supposedly weak Pasadena team, 13-2, and off that game alone Coach Oliver's men appear to have the best chance since 1927 of waxing the Hilltoppers as Santa Ana has so long yearned to wax 'em.

Unfortunately for Santa Ana, however, the Saints didn't look so powerful either, and those who were all set to proclaim the current Oliver machine his greatest, after it won so impressively from Compton, had to withhold judgment another week. Santa Ana backs will have to run harder and its line must block better before they'll win such adjectives.

Nevertheless, the Saints now know they are meeting no "wonder team" next Saturday and know, too, they have better than an even chance of winning—if they play percentage football and don't choke up as other Santa Ana teams have against San Diego.

Blower Back in Game
Both sides will be near strength. "Toy" Blower, Santa Ana's captain and best back, was held out of both week-end games so he would not injure his trick knee and barring accident in practice will play right half against San Diego and do most of the Saints' kicking and passing.

Gerard Burchard, 180-pound San Diego tackle veteran, has been favoring a leg injury also but landed his whole Pasadena scarf without hurting his leg anew, which is proof enough he will play here.

Willard Noe, one of Oliver's best reserve tackles, a possible starter against the Hilltop, suffered a painful knee injury at Tustin but this isn't expected to seriously handicap the gritty blond boy. He will be ready if Oliver wants him Saturday.

This is the time when both coaches must make final decisions about lineups. That is quite a task here because few of the Saints have shown aptitude for blocking, most important of all duties in the Knute Rockne system which they practice. The chances are good that Oliver's ablest blockers, whoever they are, will start.

Lash Is Ranking End
The best ends are Earl Harris, Jimmie Lash, Paul Pernich, Tom Carlyle and Walter Cleveland.

Harris, the biggest of the bunch, good defensively, fair offensively. Lash probably is the No. 1 all-round flankman. He is especially hard to take out of a play, and catches passes better than the others. Pernich is a fast charging end, better than Harris or Lash offensively but not as strong defensively. Carlyle and Cleveland both have strong and weak points, too, but inexperience militates against them. Cleveland is a fine pass receiver and may possibly be one of those "One Play" O'Brien ends before the season closes.

Lawrence Lutz outranks the Santa Ana tackles. He is one of the few Saints sure of a position. Big and strong, reasonable fast, Lutz handles his position as well as it has been operated here since the days of George Decker and "Tex" Rister. He is the team's

Late News Developments From Anaheim And Vicinity

PIONEER TELLS SELECTION OF STREET NAMES

Special From Anaheim

Fair daughters of Anaheim were responsible for the naming of many of the streets in this city, back in the days when they were little more than cowpaths. Mrs. Henrietta Schindler, who arrived with the first colonists, to build Anaheim in 1862, tells the story of how the streets were named and other long forgotten tales of pioneer days.

Zeyn street was named after the daughter of a Mr. Zeyn who sought to do his daughter honor. Mrs. C. E. Holcomb, who now lives in Fullerton, was the little girl who used to travel the narrow street and run merrily up and down her father's old land tract.

Founding of Colony
Mrs. Schindler told of how the first 50 men, who came with their families to found the colony, each owned 20 acres of land which became vineyards and were later to be divided up into smaller portions for the many incoming people who desired to live here.

"Where Clementine street stands used to be the Landenberg tract and the street was named for Mrs. Augusta Landenberg.

"The Roach sisters, Paulina and Samina, who were the stepdaughters of Bolde, soon found nearby streets named for them."

Melrose Street
Old Judge Melrose handed down his proud, Scottish name to Melrose street where he spent many years of his life. Mrs. Schindler told modestly how "Kroeger" street was named for her father who lived in the southeast part of town.

Gates Kept Locked
"There were four gates, one at the end of South street, North street, East street, and West street, and the gates were securely locked each night.

"When we were children one of our favorite sports was to go up the incline on East street where we could see the wild horses and play on our harmonicas. They liked the music and would close in around the fence, then we would throw our hands and shoes them away. How they would run!

"Even that long ago my father warned the people that if they ever graded down the incline on East street the river would come in and there would be floods. His prophecy came true and since East street has been flattened out we have had several floods.

"When we first came to Anaheim the Santa Ana river was really a large river and was never dry the year round. There was more vegetation, too, and the soil was fertile. We had to ford the river with our horse and buggy because there wasn't a bridge in those days."

Mrs. Schindler, who will celebrate her seventy-third birthday the first of next month, recalled many incidents of her happy childhood since she was brought here at the age of four from San Francisco where she was born.

Start Settlement
"In '58 our fathers came down here and took over tracts of land, upon which they each built a four-room house and started their ranches. Then they came up to San Francisco, which was a muddy, dirty little town, full of rough characters and brought their families back south by boat. Big wagons met us at San Pedro and brought us on to our new homes.

"Annie Fisher was the first child born here, and the town was named for her.

"While a child we had several Indian scares, but they were always afraid of guns so there was never much trouble. Many of the Indians worked peacefully on the ranches. They would fight among themselves, but if they were treated right by the white people they gave very little trouble. When they fought with each other they used knives, but bows and arrows were their weapons on the outside.

"No one was allowed to give them anything to drink as it made them very nasty and mean. They were rather lazy and only did the easier work on the ranches like picking the grapes, but they were useful.

"They talked a mixture of Spanish and Mexican and soon it seemed that all of the white children were speaking that and forgetting the English and German which their parents spoke.

Amusement Scares
"Our only amusements outside of our homes and work," Mrs. Schindler further recounted, "was the Saturday night dance when parents bundled up children and everyone went to the open dance and beer hall. Old and young danced to the piano. Mr. Van Guepen owned the hall. His wife, who was formerly the widow of John Sutter of Sutter Fort fame, sang and danced. At 12 o'clock the dance would end and everyone would walk to their homes.

"I like to recall the great fun that we had dancing the old polka, waltz and mazurka. Soon outsiders came in and brought with them the new dances.

"The first school here, was run by Mrs. Billy Knott's grandmother and grandfather. It was a private school in which they taught fancy work, music, dancing and six different languages, besides the regular general work.

"I used to have to walk 20 blocks to and from school and often the bad boys scared me so when I was on my way home that I would be afraid to continue. They would tell me that Indians were hidden in the big ditch that I had to pass to reach my home.

First Church
"The first church here was of course the Lutheran church and later the Catholic church came when many Spanish people invaded Anaheim.

"By the time that I was 10 years old the greatest joy in my life was the circus which came once a year. People would call it a 'one horse show' today but it was very important to me. It consisted of little more than a few buffaloes, one of two Indians and a few horses.

"The first doctor here was William Hardin, but he did not come for many years. Before that when there were any broken bones the military surgeon from San Pedro came and set them. Many soldiers camped on the outside of town as they were enroute to Arizona to fight the Indians. We often entertained them because they hated to go out there as few ever came back.

"We hardly ever went away from Anaheim except for short drives because for one thing there was no place to go. Los Angeles was a three-hour drive from here and there were no nearby towns. There was a place called Santa Ana up near where Olive now is, but only Mexicans lived there. Later it was moved down on the flats."

Mrs. Schindler finished her pleasant recounting of former days by saying, "Until five years ago I was never out of the county. Finally my daughter bought an automobile and took me up in northern California and since then I have been to Coronado."

STATE, COUNTY SILENT OVER PAVING PLAN

Special From Anaheim

No definite word has been received from either the state or county in regard to financial aid sought in the proposed widening and otherwise improving North Los Angeles street in Anaheim. It was announced today by John W. Price, city manager.

Nearly six months ago the city petitioned the state for aid in a project to widen North Los Angeles street, to repave the street and to lower grades. In response to the city's plea it was indicated by S. V. Cortelyou, district engineer of the division of highways, that the state would offer financial assistance although not as much as the city asked for.

The entire project is estimated to cost $112,000. The state was asked to contribute about $37,000, but it has been indicated that the amount expected to be received will not reach so high a figure.

The county supervisors have as yet expressed no sentiment on the matter although they are expected to contribute about one half as much as does the state. The balance of the expense, if the project meets the approval of property owners involved, would be borne by the assessment on property in the improvement district.

Mayor L. E. Miller today declared that no definite word has been received from the state in regard to the contribution of a portion of the expense.

REV. LINDGREN PREACHES ON NEED OF FAITH

Speaking from the text, "Verily, verily, I say unto thee, we speak that we do know and testify that we have seen and yet receive not our witness," the Rev. Frank Lindgren, pastor of Calvary church here, said, in part, yesterday:

"What one man knows and knows he knows is better than what a hundred men think they know. The testimony of one, testifying on a certain subject concerning what he had seen is worth more than the testimonies of a hundred expressing themselves on things they did not see on the same subject."

"The skeptic asks, 'Do you believe things that you cannot reason out?' Yes, I do. If I didn't I wouldn't believe much. There are things all around us that we cannot account for by any process of reasoning. Man, you are a mystery. You do not understand yourself. God never created a greater mystery than man—unless it's woman. She certainly can keep us guessing."

"And the miracles don't appear to your reason! Miracles are God's doings, and if He sees reason for doing them, that's reason enough. I am surprised at the bright, scholarly men who stumble over the miracles of the Bible, yet do not seem to have any trouble tracing their ancestors back to a pack of monkeys up a tree. They may do that if they like; I don't want to interfere with anyone's family affairs, but when they attempt to run my lineage back that way, I object."

"Every man fitted out with all the modern conveniences has five senses—hearing, seeing, tasting, smelling and feeling. These senses are for things material, but when it comes to the spiritual realm, with which the Bible deals, another sense is necessary, the spiritual one."

POINTS WAYS TO BUILD UP THE CHURCH

"Building Up the Divine Institution" was the subject of a sermon delivered yesterday at the Southside Christian Church of Christ by the Rev. C. C. Houston, pastor. He spoke, in part, as follows:

"The only divine institution for the religion of God today is what He calls the church or kingdom of Christ. God had at one time what was called by Paul as the Jews' religion. He said that when he was in the Jews' religion he persecuted the church of God. Thus he places in contrast the two religions. The Jews' religion with its law and covenant was God's revealed religion in the Old Testament to the children of Israel. This religion and law was done away with to make room for what Paul says is the church."

"Now, in order to build up this institution it is necessary to do so according to the divine teaching of the apostles of the Gospel, for it was to be His church. The apostles and prophets made known the way. That way is revealed in the New Testament. The word of God is able to build up. This power must be received into the heart to do the building, either in bringing the unsaved and putting him on the foundation, or in building up the character to a higher degree for service of the Christian."

"Another of the traits for building up the church is the deep love for souls that are lost. Here there is no limit to the work that may be engaged in either by the church as a whole or by the individual Christian. So many times the so-called Christian is so big in his un-Christian life that the sinner looks at him and never looks beyond to the Christ. The supposed Christian stands in the way, and the sinner will not take the trouble to move around a little so he can see the beauty of the great Saviour."

"I would suggest that another very useful attribute of building up the divine institution is that we love as brethren. There are not many very great things can stand in the way of the people of the Lord who really love one another and who manifest the spirit of the Master in the showing of that love. Let us look for the things that make for peace and for the truth of God that will build us to what God would have us be."

Noted Evangelist Coming to Santa Ana This Winter

Announcing that one of the nation's outstanding evangelists was coming to Santa Ana this winter to conduct an evangelistic campaign, the Rev. Walter Scott Buchanan, pastor of the First Christian church yesterday morning urged his congregation to begin preparations now for this event.

The evangelist is Charles Reign Scoville, who it is said is regarded as one of the most powerful speakers in the country and who Billy Sunday has said has no equal in stirring communities and saving souls. "Scoville wins thousands in every town where he conducts campaigns and it is up to us to be ready for this meeting," the Rev. Mr. Buchanan declared.

"We are going to receive from our children what we place in them in influence and power. That is the reason we should be planning for them far ahead."

"Prayer and encouraging words are necessary in times like these. We need to be anxious concerning the souls of men and the responsibility God has placed upon us. It is necessary to take Jesus to the citizenship of the community and hold Him before them as the Saviour and Redeemer."

GRACE OF GOD ENABLES MEN TO CARRY ON

The Rev. U. E. Harding, pastor of the Church of The Nazarene, spoke Sunday morning from the subject "Grit and Grace." Using for a text Deut. 33:25, "As thy days, so shall thy strength be," he said in part:

"To go through this world you need grit as well as grace, and God gives grace to those who show some grit. God is not interested so much in lazy folk."

"God gives grace as you need. If grace is measured by weight or strength I would say it takes greater grace to live than to die. I don't like to hear young, stout people say I want to die, I am homesick for heaven. You will have all eternity to sing His praise up there. This old world needs some sinners down here to show forth His grace to save and keep. When you are old and alone in the world I don't blame you if you feel like singing 'I would not live always.'"

"If I was a cartoonist I would draw a picture of a little woman pushing a wheelbarrow towards heaven, with her husband and children in it. What cowards some fine looking men are. They carry their religion like their property in their wife's name."

"God has grace for depression days. Job had a depression all his own but it didn't affect his religion. He said 'have we not received good from the Lord and shall we not receive evil?' In other words, shall we whine now?"

"As thy days so shall thy strength be. All days, good days, bad days, sick days, well days, winter and summer days. Some folks are afraid of dying in the poor house. If you had been born in one like some of us, you would not be afraid, for you would only be going home."

Baptist Men To Meet Tomorrow

The Men's club of the First Baptist church will hold a dinner meeting at 6:30 p. m. tomorrow in the church, at which a surprise program is planned according to a church announcement made today.

Elmer Steffensen will be in charge of the program. The meeting will be the first to be held under the direction of the new president, P. H. Norton.

SALVATION IS DEPENDENT ON GRACE OF GOD

"Millions of people who think themselves to be devout Christians will be lost because they trust in their own works of righteousness instead of the grace of God," this was the message that Evangelist John E. Ford delivered to a large audience at the tabernacle at 2707 North Main street last night.

"Nobody from Adam's day to this has ever been saved by keeping the law. It is impossible, for Paul tells us that 'all have sinned,' and sin is the transgression of the law; hence all have transgressed the law—failed to keep it. The wages of sin is death; consequently, all men have been condemned to death. Now how could we conclude that anyone was ever saved by keeping a law which we are distinctly told was not kept. Hence, the only way any man was ever saved or ever can be is through grace—forgiveness made possible through the atonement of Christ for our sin."

"But does this gracious provision for escape from the penalty of the broken law abolish the law? God forbid," exclaims Paul. It establishes the law. Rom. 3:31. The strongest proof that the law is immutable that God Himself could give, was the gift of His own Son to die in our stead to satisfy the claims of the law. Because 'the law is holy, just, and good,' God could not abolish it without removing the very foundation of His character. It is based on eternal, and cannot be altered. Could it have been altered, it would have been, and Christ need not have died."

HUNTINGTON BEACH GETS TEACHER MEET

The district Regional Conference of Americanization teachers is to be held at the Huntington Beach high school October 31, according to an announcement made this morning by Mrs. Florence Summers, director of immigrant education of that school.

The sessions of the conference are to open at 10 a. m. and are to close at 3:30 p. m. Luncheon is to be served at the Huntington Beach high school cafeteria and reservations are to be made as soon as possible with Mrs. Summers.

Plans Inquiry On Appropriation For Conservation Work

The tri-counties reforestation committee, of which Francis Uttley of Riverside is chairman, wants to know how much, if any, money Orange, Riverside and San Bernardino counties plan to make available this year matching state funds to begin a water conservation program on the upper Santa Ana river. This was reported Saturday after a meeting of the committee at the Norconian hotel near Corona recently.

It is expected that requests for this information will be placed before the boards of supervisors in the three counties this week. Bernardino counties have set aside $10,000 each for the project, but Orange county's fund, it is understood, would become available only if an engineering survey now being made shows that this section would receive commensurate benefit from the proposed work. The board here has tentatively set aside a fund of $10,000 to be used if the survey shows a favorable report.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

The question, "Are Sin, Disease, and Death Real?" was answered in the negative in the lesson-sermon Sunday, in the Santa Ana First Church of Christ, Scientist.

One of the Scriptural selections referred to a man "which had an infirmity thirty and eight years," who lay with "a great multitude of impotent folk, of blind, halt, withered," waiting for the moving of the water of the pool of Bethesda. The account continued: "When Jesus saw him lie, and knew that he had been now a long time in that case, he saith unto him, Wilt thou be made whole? The impotent man answered him, Sir, I have no man, when the water is troubled, to put me into the pool; but while I am coming, another steppeth down before me. Jesus saith unto him, Rise, take up thy bed, and walk. And immediately the man was made whole, and took up his bed, and walked: and on the same day was the sabbath."

A correlative passage from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, stated, "Jesus illustrated the divine Principle and the power of immortal Mind by healing sickness and sin and destroying the foundations of death."

BAPTISTS TELL PROGRAM FOR WORLD SCHOOL

A school of world friendship, starting on October 18 and continuing each Sunday until November 22, was announced today by the Rev. Harry Evan Owings, pastor of the First Baptist church. There will be adult classes, combined older young people and senior high classes, junior high groups and elementary classes.

Evening classes will meet at six o'clock but the junior primary and beginning groups will meet at the regular Sunday school hours. Assemblies will be held at 7 p. m.

For the assemblies special decorations will be provided in keeping with the nation being stressed. On October 18 the assembly topic will be Mexico, with Miss Edna Ingham as chairman and Mrs. John Tesmann as speaker.

India will be studied on October 25 under the chairmanship of Mrs. R. L. Stearns and with the Rev. O. S. Russell as the speaker. Work among the rural churches of Southern California will be discussed.

American Indians will provide the topic for November 1, with varied music by the choir being a feature of the meeting under the leadership of Mrs. L. C. Fairbanks. World missions and world peace will supply the theme for the November 8 assembly, featuring Armistice day. The Rev. Mr. Owings will speak and Mrs. J. R. Farwell will be chairman. November 15 will be devoted to the Chinese and Mrs. John Newcomer will be chairman of the meeting.

The speaker will be announced later. November 22 will be devoted to America and a Biblical play, "Onesimus," directed by Miss Rose Borum, assisted by Miss Frederick, will be given.

The evening classes for older adults, meeting at six o'clock, will have H. M. Culler as teacher and "The Rural Billion," by McConnell, as the text. The same text will be used by the young adults and young people's classes, meeting at the same time. Mrs. W. A. Atkinson and Walter Ferris will be the teachers for the young adults and the teachers for the young people will be Mrs. M. M. Holmes and Rev. Mr. Owings.

The text for the junior high group will be "Treasures in the Earth," by Hamlin. Mrs. Charles Harp and Miss Irene Catland will be the teachers.

Classes meeting during the Sunday school hour will have "Open Windows" by Entwistle as their text for the junior group, with Mrs. E. A. Davidson as teacher. "The World on a Farm," by War-

BEST REWARD KNOWLEDGE OF DOING BEST

The Rev. Harry Evan Owings, pastor of the First Baptist church, preached a sermon last night on "Getting Your Reward," in which he emphasized that the most valuable prize of accomplishment comes not from without but is an inner satisfaction coming from knowledge of service to others. He spoke in part as follows:

"It is one of the characteristic traits of man that he desires some kind of reward. The child esteems the medal or ribbon or cup won in contest, the mature man is stirred by some applause, a bonus, degree, or other recognition of good done."

"Now we have learned to group these rewards in two classes. There are the rewards that come from without and are conferred. There are those that come from within, the simply welling up from the depth of our souls. And as man passes on from immaturity to maturity he emphasizes less and less the external and more and more the inward, the spiritual the eternal and the divine reward. The child attitude is, what do I get for this? And we are ready to excuse it as characteristic of the child. But we come to the Community Chest worker who gives freely of his hours and strength to the task and asks only the reward of satisfaction in having served his community and its welfare agencies. To do a worthwhile thing for the fun of it brings the greatest reward a true man desires or receives."

In the Parable of the Talents the character of the rewards offered the faithful and successful men is most interesting. The reward is first one of unpeakable joy, deep satisfaction in a task well done. Second, the reward consists in a larger capacity for work and the offer of a larger work to do. Third, the reward consists in hearing the voice of divine approval, "Well done. Whether it is in some far off judgment day or the judgment day of today and tomorrow this inner reward is all the good man asks."

ner will be the text for the primary groups, taught by Miss Grace Roberts. Beginners will use "The Book of Other Babies," by Entwistle, as their text. Mrs. Juanita Middleton will be the teacher.

ANDRES TALKS ON ADAM AND FALL OF MAN

The Rev. Paul Andres, pastor of the Christian Spiritual Science church, spoke to his congregation yesterday on "Adam and the Forbidden Fruit." He took his text from Genesis 2:17, "But of the tree of knowledge of good and evil thou shalt not eat of it; for in the day thou eatst thereof thou shalt surely die." The minister spoke in part as follows:

"There has been much misunderstanding among those who hold the orthodox view of man's nature in regard to the true significance of the penalty threatened Adam in case he partook of the forbidden fruit. Theology teaches that as Adam did not die in the physical sense of the term, as now used, the opinion has generally obtained that the term death must in this case be taken to mean a spiritual or moral death."

"By carefully examining the marginal reading it will be seen that the death threatened was not to be fully carried into effect in the very day he might eat the forbidden fruit. The expression, 'thou shalt surely die,' when literally rendered, dying thou shalt die, gives the true sense of the original. This would indicate a continuation of the act of dying that he would begin that very day, and the process of decay and death would go on indefinitely until it became complete and final. By his own sin or disobedience to the mandate man sowed the seeds of decay in his own nature, the sure harvest of which would be universal death to his race. From our present standpoint we find nothing to justify the opinion that death, and all our suffering were introduced by this one act of disobedience."

"There is doubtless truth in this allegorical account of the fall, as it is called; but that the popular teaching in regard to it is literally true, is not reasonable. Is it not passing strange that this the most wonderful event that has ever occurred on this or any other planet, should never have been referred to in the numerous interviews recorded in these books between God and Moses? supposed to be written by Moses?"

"Neither Joshua, who succeeded him, or any of the prophets, make any reference to or endorse the popular theological theory of the fall. It does seem to me that if this was the foundation-stone upon which theology was to be erected,

CALLS ON MEN TO STAND BY CONSTITUTION

The story of the conversion of Paul and Silas were held in bonds was the basis of the lesson at the Men's Community Bible class yesterday morning in the Fox West Coast theater.

"Persons in the community where these two great missionaries were preaching were upset because of their preaching and the progress they were making and made trouble for them, finally getting them thrown in prison," the Rev. Walter S. Buchanan, class teacher and pastor of the First Christian church said. "Those whom they were hurting with the gospel were the ones who were most stirred up against them."

"That is the way it is all over America today. The wet man who made his money from liquor is howling because his business has been taken away. The wets claim that more liquor is being sold now and they are making more money than before prohibition. Then why are they clamoring for repeal and the return of liquor? Men like you are going to save this nation and its Constitution. You will stand true and drive back its attackers."

"As Paul and Silas were in jail bound hand and foot, all they could do was talk and sing, so they began a prayer meeting and song service. An earthquake followed that opened the doors and loosed their bonds and the jailer became convinced these were no ordinary men and asked how he might be saved. Their answer was to accept Christ and believe in Him."

"The question the world needs to ask today is 'What must I do to be saved?' as the jailer did. There is only one way—teaching Jesus and accepting Him. It enables men to retain their honor and live better lives."

Special music for the class service was given by the Harrell sisters, daughters of M. and Mrs. Sam Harrell.

REV. SCHROCK TELLS VALUES OF RELIGION

"The chief value of the religion of Jesus," said the Perry Frederick Schrock at the First Congregational church yesterday morning, "is that it challenges man to develop his own religion." The speaker went on to say that this statement was a quotation from Dr. Harry P. Ward but that he believed the statement offered a helpful suggestion to those who were questioning today the value of the religion of Jesus for the modern man.

"There are three ways of thinking of the value of the religion of Jesus," said the Rev. Mr. Schrock. "To some people it is a deposit that has come from the past, a complete theological system, or a plan of salvation. It is offered to us and we may accept or reject it. If we accept there will be certain obligations but there will be great benefits also. In this system Jesus plays a central part. By His suffering and death He assumes the penalty that is due us for the sin which we inherited from Adam. If we accept what He has done for us we are forgiven and will have eternal salvation."

"This does not satisfy many modern minds. They don't believe that they are under penalty for the fall of Adam and they want something more than a ticket to Paradise when they die. They want something that will help in the present problem of living. So they think of the religion of Jesus as a pattern, or example, to be followed."

"It is here that Dr. Ward's statement comes with rich suggestion. The chief value of the religion of Jesus is that it challenges man to develop his own religion," and to develop it by changing his life. Dr. Ward goes on to say, "The way of life that Jesus urges, gives not a pattern but a process of life."

"The religion of Jesus offers a process for the making of life. It may be a primitive life of an Alaskan Indian or the complex life of a modern business man; it may be a college boy or a street car conductor; a house wife or a judge of the supreme court. In a very real sense each person by using this process of life will have a religion of his own, for it grows out of his own experience. The chief value of the religion of Jesus for you and for me is that it challenges us to have a religion of our own—one that will fit our lives. And that is the only kind of religion that has value for today."

CHURCH WOMEN SOCIETY THE HOME FASHIONS

YEAR'S OBJECTIVES OUTLINED WHEN DISTRICT BOARD MEETS

Support of President Hoover, the Eighteenth Amendment, and World Peace will be objectives of the clubs in the Southern District Federation of Business and Professional Women's clubs, it was announced here yesterday following a meeting of the district board at the Community club. Gladys Smith, public welfare chairman, in outlining the work for the year, said:

"One of the objectives of the district federation is to promote the interests of women along civic lines and to stimulate thinking members to a truly worthwhile program. For October we will make a survey and study of safety and sanitation measures. For November we will study the Eighteenth Amendment. President Hoover does not favor repeal of that measure."

Greeting their friends in their home in North Broadway park this week, having returned from an extended tour of Europe, J. M. and Mrs. Robert Moore were hosts at a 7 o'clock dinner party. It has been about two weeks since Mr. and Mrs. Moore returned home.

An enjoyable evening of contract bridge followed, and all players were presented with lovely gifts which their hosts had brought with them from abroad. Women were given bridge sets from Italy, while the men received handsome linen handkerchiefs from Ireland. Gifts were chiefly tied with pink ribbons.

Those sharing the hospitality of Mr. and Mrs. Moore were Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Landis, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. George, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Richards, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Haas and Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Liebig.

California Clubwomen Plan Dedication of Bird Sanctuary

California clubwomen from all parts of the state will be in attendance at the opening of the Bird Sanctuary on Frazier mountain, October 25. It will be known as the "Sanctuary of the Pines" and is the first sanctuary of any extent opened by the United States government in the southwest. It comprises approximately 50,000 acres in the Santa Barbara National Forest in Ventura, Kern and Los Angeles counties.

For many years the clubwomen of these three counties have been furthering this project and it is with much satisfaction that they will witness the formal dedication of the tract of land to the feathered friends. Not only is the land set aside for the birds but the great natural growths abounding there are to be preserved and protected.

Mrs. Annie Little Barry, president of the California Federation of Women's Clubs, together with a large number of naturalists and prominent Californians will be present at the ceremony. Mrs. Barry will express her appreciation of the government's work and will commend the clubwomen and others assisting for their active participation in this achievement.

Among the women assisting in this achievement is Mrs. Edwin S. Fuller of Inglewood, chairman of nature study, birds, flowers and wild life in the California Federation. She states, "The eastern states have many of these sanctuaries. They have been set aside by far-seeing legislators and friends, but so far California has done very little. The Salton Sea refuge is a wonderful and praiseworthy fulfillment of the plans of naturalists for many years. It is in the Salton Sea refuge that the shore birds may find refuge. Oil in the bottom waters has driven the shore birds inland, and rare species of shore birds inland, and several opportunities for sanctuaries of immense value as a sight-seeing and economic measure have been lost. It is with great happiness that we, the clubwomen of California will assist in the dedication of the Sanctuary of the Pines on Frazier mountain on October 25."

Church Societies

Sunday School Class
Members of Mrs. Thomas Blair's Sunday school class of the First Presbyterian church had the opportunity to meet in a lovely new home yesterday afternoon when they were guests of Mrs. J. H. Anderson, 2329 Bush street.

The short business meeting was conducted by Mrs. Herbert Allemen in the absence of the president, Mrs. E. L. Hull, who is visiting in the east.

The program of games which followed was in charge of the social committee. Miss Etta Hale presented a group of her pupils, who gave readings. About 50 members were present to take part in the enjoyable afternoon, concluded when refreshments were served.

City Council
Members of the City Council P-T-A. held their first meeting of the fall term Thursday evening in the new Francis Williams auditorium, when they were privileged to hear selections by the Mothers' chorus, under the direction of Miss Frances Beeson. The group sang "The Green Cathedral" and "Long Ago."

A report of a 30 per cent increase in attendance for this year was given by L. W. Archer, supervisor of playgrounds. He also stated that new equipment had been obtained this winter and will be ready for the summer months.

An interesting report on the student loan fund for junior college was given by Mrs. Mary B. Robertson, fourth district president. A report on the high school student loan fund was given by Mrs. Hugh Neighbour. An invitation was extended by Miss Frances Beeson, supervisor of the city schools, to all mothers wishing to join her Mothers' chorus. This meets Monday afternoons, between the hours of 2:30 and 3:30 o'clock.

Luncheon Meeting
About 200 members of the Women's Home Missionary society of the First Methodist church took part in the annual dues-paying luncheon held Wednesday afternoon in the basement of the educational building. The menu was served at gayly decorated tables, evidencing a red, white and blue motif. The patriotic theme was observed in the program as well.

The meeting which followed was in charge of Mrs. R. R. Lutes, who introduced district conference and national officers of the society. A quartet composed of James H. A. Mr. Stevens, Mrs. Rutter and Mrs. George Warner gave two musical numbers to open the program.

Mrs. E. M. Mills gave a short talk on the various branches of the society, after which a pageant was presented under the direction of Mrs. Fred Lazenby. In this the value of the society's work to the many nationalities under the United States flag was depicted.

D. C. Clanton played two trombone solos. The program closed with a drama on naturalization in charge of Mrs. S. M. Davis.

Monthly Meeting
The regular monthly meeting of the Missionary society of the United Brethren church was held recently in the home of Mrs. T. W. Ringland, wife of the new pastor of the church. The meeting marked the celebration of the 50th anniversary of the "Evangelist," missionary magazine. Devotions were led by Mrs. H. B. Spayd, following which a playlet, "There's a Birthday in the Air," was presented by several of the members.

At the conclusion of the afternoon refreshments of a huge birthday cake, baked by Mrs. G. W. Jamison and iced in lavender and white, missionary colors, was served with fruit jello.

Charming Appointments Used at Surprise Birthday Party

A surprise party of charming appointments was given Saturday afternoon when Mrs. James Gillogly entertained in her home, 701 South Van Ness avenue, honoring the birthday anniversary of her mother-in-law, Mrs. Ella McEwen.

The decorative motif of the day was in the softest of tints, with pink and lavender predominating. Bouquets used throughout the room combined asters and other dainty blooms. An enjoyable social time was spent, and an interesting feature of the day came when the honoree was presented with many lovely gifts which her friends had selected for her.

Concluding the afternoon, the hostess served a tempting refreshment course with the assistance of Mrs. Marie Wade. Tables were appointed in rose glassware, harmonizing with the pretty flowers used.

Those present, other than the honoree, Mrs. McEwen, were Mrs. Walter McKean, Mrs. W. E. Dorance, Mrs. W. E. Haynes, Mrs. Sam Hauck, Mrs. Alice Wade, Mrs. May Anderson, Mrs. Hattie Tidball, Mrs. Marie Wade, this city, and the honoree's sister, Mrs. Edward Howes of San Diego, and the hostess, Mrs. Gillogly.

Attractive Motif Used For Bridge Club Dinner

An attractive Halloween motif was employed by Mr. and Mrs. Orlo W. Householder last evening when they entertained members of the Merry Makers club in Ketter's blue room. All appointments were in harmony with the holiday theme, and flowers used were pompon dahlias and larger ones as well.

Following the inviting dinner menu, served early in the evening, bridge was enjoyed. When the clever little ladies had been checked it was learned that Mrs. Erna Burns and Harold Smith held high scores and Mrs. Marcus Lassiter and Earl McBay low.

PATENTED PROCESS FOR ROASTING COFFEE EXPLAINED

Hills Bros. Roast Their Coffee Evenly, Continuously... "a Little at a Time"

The ordinary way of roasting coffee is in big drums that contain several hundred pounds. This has disadvantages, for it is not possible to roast each batch alike. One may be underdone—another overdone. As a result, you do not always get the best flavor—frequently, you get different flavors.

Hills Bros.' patented, Controlled Roasting process overcomes these things! As the accuracy of the hour-glass depends upon an even, continuous flow... a little at a time... so the uniform flavor of Hills Bros. Coffee is produced by this patented process that roasts evenly, continuously... a little at a time. Automatically controlled heat gives every berry an even, perfect roast. The finest flavor results. It is a flavor no other coffee has— for no other coffee is roasted this way.

Hills Bros. Coffee is packed in vacuum cans that keep it ever-fresh. Air, which destroys the flavor of coffee, is removed and kept out of these cans. Ordinary "air-tight" cans won't keep coffee fresh. But Hills Bros. Coffee can't go stale. Order some today. Ask for it by name, and look for the Arab trademark on the can.

Hills Bros. Coffee, Inc., Los Angeles, Calif.

Moav Club Members Enjoy Japanese Party Theme

It seemed altogether appropriate that Miss Jane Cunningham, in entertaining members of the Moav club and their pledges Thursday evening, should employ a Japanese motif, as she has spent much time in Japan and is familiar with the customs of the Orient. The clever acceptance party was held in Miss Cunningham's home, 1208 North Van Ness avenue, where court whist was enjoyed during the evening. First prize was awarded Miss Carolyn Mueller, while Miss Dulcie Green was consoling.

A delectable refreshment course was served at a late hour, concluding the evening's entertainment. Pledges accepted were the Misses Carolyn Mueller, Kay Gorath, Katherine Chapman, Ernestine Wakeham, Violet Johnson, Virginia Anderson, Helen Wesselman, Althea Lemke and Edna Hall. Members present were the Misses Joanna Day, Hazel Eaton, Edith Bailey, Elizabeth Skiles, Dulcie Green, Elizabeth Riniker, Eleanor Wisner, the hostess, Miss Cunningham, and the advisor, Miss Frances Egge.

The Case of the Missing Sandals

By Nancy Barr Mavity

"DM you ever hear of the Luna Colony?" District Attorney Hubert Graham asked Peter Piper over the breakfast table. The attorney and Piper had been discussing the latest wife murder and the possible motives for such a crime. Lewis Tanner, a sticky little man, had come to Graham the day before to lodge a complaint against Luna, leader of a witchcraft colony up in the hills. Tanner's wife had preceded him to California to locate a possible place where his health could be restored. Up his arrival he found that Mrs. Tanner had made a gift of their entire savings, $20,000, to Luna. He wishes to reclaim the money but due to lack of sufficient evidence to warrant an arrest is unable to get the authorities to act. Graham fears the result of Tanner's wrath. He finds Peter is slowly awakening to the possibilities for a bang-bang Peter Piper. The next day, when he leaves the restaurant, Peter takes his car and drives to the colony. He is admitted through the gates by an old Negro watchman, who he discovers is totally blind. He is warned by the watchman to leave Luna alone. Peter enters the reception room of Luna's abode and while waiting for her to appear examines a carving of a primitive African figure hanging above a white stone bench. It's just some funny monkey business of lines and curves," Peter mutters.

And a voice from behind him asks, "You think so?" Peter Piper's mood of disgruntled cynicism deepened steadily as he maneuvered his battered car around the sharp curves of the narrow, snake-like road that wound its rutted course upward into the hills. An outcropping tentacle of the city—a newly opened subdivision with jerrybuilt apartment houses advertising the advantages of their distant view of San Francisco bay—lay only a scant half mile behind him, but the tortuous course of the road had almost immediately hidden the city behind the shoulder of the hill, and gave the canyon an effect of remoteness.

As he jerked his car around another bend, Peter cursed his easily stimulated curiosity, and Graham, who had known so well how to play upon it. He knew these tawdry, pseudo-mystical cults, with their ignorant, stupid, emotionally starved adherents! Graham had hinted that this one was different, but they were all essentially alike. They distributed verbose and vaporous tracts, and usually they were defendants in unsavory court cases whose details could only be hinted in the press.

To be sure, the Luna colony had not issued any tracts, so far as Peter knew, and had thus far received no publicity, self-sought or otherwise. As for Luna herself, Peter's transiently stirred interest had waned almost to the vanishing point. She would be as tawdry as others of her kind—a mere petty crook, without sufficient brains for a big-time confidence game.

Still, twenty thousand dollars wasn't so small for a single haul! And Graham had seemed assured, both that the woman herself was in some degree remarkable and that serious trouble would sooner or later break out with Luna as its focal point.

Peter was not at all sure whether his present errand was to warn her of danger from Tanner or to seek a chink in her legal armor, which would warrant exposing her. On the one hand he had scant difference for fools—and on the other, knaves who batted on the mental malnutrition of their rickety-minded victims left him with a bad taste in the mouth.

His morose reflections were cut short by the sudden appearance of an obstruction across the road. It was a gate of heavy meshed wire, to which was attached a board bearing the familiar inscription, "Private Property."

As Peter noted his car up to the barrier and swung his long legs to the ground he noted that the gate furnished the opening in an equally stout high fence, partially concealed by a heavy windbreak of eucalyptus trees which curved in a wide circle on each side of the road. Despite the inevitable appearance of the barrier, Peter's car had evidently not approached unnoticed, for the gates swung partly open before he reached them.

A massively built negro, gnarled and twisted as one of the live oak trees on the hill slope, stood in the aperture. Behind him Peter glimpsed the open door of a small cabin, its outer walls of rough bark making it almost invisible among the trees.

"Madame Luna here?" They always called themselves "Madame," Peter reflected sardonically. The old man bowed his grizzled head in silence. Then, to Peter's astonishment, he lifted his huge hands and ran his fingers lightly across Peter's face.

"You have not been here before," he announced with quiet definiteness.

Peter, blinking in amazement at the unexpected gesture, noticed for the first time that the wrinkled lids over the old man's eyes were shut. He was totally blind.

"No, I haven't," Peter admitted. "But I'm interested. I'd like to learn something about the colony—perhaps to join it."

"You'd never join," the old man said. "You don't sound right for that. Your voice—" He shook his head slowly. "I know voices. Voices are all I've had for forty years. You'd better let Luna alone."

There was no disrespect in his use of the name. His tone somehow conveyed to Peter that it would have been as inappropriate to apply end, taking the situation in hand with calm authority.

"You have nothing to give me that I need, and you do not belong to those who take what I have to give," she said in her low yet reverberating voice.

A sudden flare of resentment brought a quick flush to Peter's face. The resentment was due to his recognition that ordinary cajolery and subterfuge would not go far with this woman before him.

The usual technique of "getting the story" would be useless here. But with it came a swift defensive reaction—she might be smart, but he wasn't so dumb. She needn't pull that oracular stuff on him.

"Let's talk like human beings—you mean you don't think newspaper publicity is valuable in your line," he said sharply.

Luna smiled—a broad, provocative smile that seemed to beat upon the air with waves of warmth.

"You wouldn't dislike me so much if you didn't recognize in me a power that makes you uneasy," she said.

"I recognize your sex appeal, as the movies call it, but I'm immune," Peter said brutally. "All the same, you're so different from what I expected that I'm interested. And I really do feel like warning you that you're skating on rather thin ice."

"There's trouble in the offing and it goes by the name of one Lewis Tanner. He's rather argumentative about the financial arrangements of your colony, you know."

Peter was watching for the effect of his words, yet the effect, when it came, sent his eyebrow cocking upward in astonishment. The half-lowered eyelids lifted over Luna's eyes—they seemed literally to expand and to blaze upon him with inward light.

"Do you suppose that a man like Tanner, or anyone else, could touch me—could break the faith of my followers?"

Although her voice was not raised, each word was like the stroke of a gong.

"I have the passionate devotion of hundreds—they might easily be thousands if I sought adherents, instead of waiting for them to come to me. If they were shown evidence that I had committed eleven murders, they would still believe in me!"

"I heard the most popular woman evangelist of the day say almost the same thing, once," Peter rejoined. "But it didn't keep her out of an embarrassing grand jury investigation, all the same."

"It's just occurred to me that you're a good deal alike, you two. You're of the same kind, you know. You're both of you looking for money, and have tremendous personal magnetism, and I imagine that most people would say that either money or love was the mainspring of character in both of you. But I don't think so. I never thought so of her, and I don't of you."

"You're both clever as the very devil. You were bound to make a spectacular personal success in one way or another, no matter when or where you were born. Some force of environment made her take the stage of evangelism, and led you to this."

Peter waved his hand vaguely backward at the leering carving on the wall, with the white plaque of Saint John above.

"But I believe it's power you worship—not abstract money power, but power over human beings, the thirst for what you both called their 'passionate devotion.'"

Peter paused, out of breath. It was a tribute to the woman's personality that he had poured out his real feelings with a sincerity and a frankness which he had been far from intending or foreseeing.

"That woman!" Her yellow eyes blazed scorn. "Her religion is a mere superstition—a silly, common, daylight thing. Mine goes back into the darkness. There are fewer to understand the power of darkness, but the power of darkness is supreme over the power of light."

Something in the reiterated phrase awoke an echo in Peter's memory. "The powers of darkness." It connected with another phrase used by Graham in speaking of the Luna colony. Graham had said something about witchcraft. The power of darkness—witchcraft—devil worship—Luna—Luna of course meant the moon.

The silver crescent on a slender fillet half hidden in Luna's hair confirmed the reference. Somewhere or other he had read that the antique pagan worship of Diana, the moon goddess, had been involved in the Christian-evoked demonism of the middle ages. The moon was always somehow connected with the witch's rites.

But in the twentieth century! There had been some sort of newspaper yarn about the celebration of the black mass in modern New York. There had been the witchcraft murders in Pennsylvania, and the Marchand case in Buffalo—but those were surely among ignorant, isolated people.

MIXING BOWL

To Protect That Table Top

I was fit to be tied this morning when I discovered that a shallow bowl full of gladiolus had been jarred and the water had marred the top of a lovely table. I should have known that the top-heavy flowers wouldn't stay put in a shallow bowl, yet I like them in this fashion so well I was willing to take chances with my lovely table and shouldn't be crying over spilt milk.

Well, I safeguarded against a similar accident by anchoring the glass frog to the bottom of the bowl with paraffin. The flowers stay just where they should and when the bowl has to be emptied it is a simple matter to run hot water into the bowl until the frog can be lifted out; more hot water will detach the wax from the frog.

Short-stemmed roses, asters, small chrysanthemums and carnations make a brave showing, and one safe to your table, when this simple precaution is taken. Try it when arranging a centerpiece—what can be more embarrassing to the perfect hostess than the homeric laughter of a guest knocking over an insecure flower arrangement!

TODAY'S RECIPE

Gingerbread Waffles (Dessert for 6)

1/2 cup shortening
1/2 cup brown sugar
1 egg, well beaten
1-2 cup dark molasses
2 1/2 tablespoons hot water
1 level teaspoon soda
1/2 cup sour milk
2 cups sifted cake flour
1 teaspoon ginger
1/2 teaspoon salt

Don't worry if you have quite a bit of your gingerbread waffle batter left over. Just add a few raisins to it and bake some cup cakes for another meal.

While the shortening is melting (you may use bacon fat if you wish, but omit the salt) measure sugar into a mixing bowl, break the egg into sugar and beat well. Add the molasses and sour milk, then the soda dissolved in hot water. Whip this liquid mixture thoroughly before adding the melted shortening.

The flour is sifted and measured. The flour is added to the two cups and sifted once again. Stir this prepared flour into the liquid mixture, whip smooth and bake on a hot waffle iron, but watch the heat of the iron, for molasses mixtures burn easily.

Serve each waffle with a spoonful of slightly sweetened whipped cream.

By not filling the waffle iron too full, 10 waffles will be the yield from this recipe. Each waffle will have 250 calories to its credit, to which you will add not less—probably more—than 100 calories for the whipped cream garnish. I need not tell you that this is a dessert which holds a good deal of energy-making calories and is distinctly not for the pleasantly plump.

Beginning with this month, October, I am giving you via the leaflet service one dinner menu for each month. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for Seasonable Dinners, October. Foods at their best in each particular month will be used in these menus.

Tuesday's recipe will be my version of Hunter's Stew, a glorified sort of stew, with most of the ingredients coming out of cans, but none the less good for that.

THREE OF A KIND

Ernest Torrence, William Haines and Jimmy Durante as the three "Racketeers" in "New Adventures of Wallingford," now showing at the Fox Broadway theater.

WALLINGFORD FILM SHOWING AT BROADWAY

"J. Rufus Wallingford," master confidence man and apostle of the gentle art of getting rich quick, holds forth on the screen at the Fox Broadway theater in the person of the irrepressible William Haines. In "The New Wallingford," Haines as the famous trickster, and Ernest Torrence aiding and abetting him in the role of "Blackie Daw" go through a series of hilarious adventures suggested by the famous George Randolph Chester stories in the Cosmopolitan magazine. Fun is fast and furious.

They start with a crooked poker game, cheat a Syracuse manufacturer in a bogus shipping deal, start a clay mine, dodge a persistent detective and go through other hilarious adventures—Blackie gaily playing his famous saxophone in the interim. Of course when Wallingford meets the girl and decides to reform, his pals accompany him to the mourner's bench as it were.

There is a pretty love story intermingled with the potpourri of laughs, and some thrills, too. Haines does some clever straight acting in some of the situations.

Leila Hyams plays the heroine, as the small town girl in the big city, who wins the heart of the famous grafter. One of the bright spots on the cast is Jimmy Durante, the New York comedian who plays "Schnozzle" the chauffeur. His masquerade as the senator is excruciating. Hale Hamilton appears as the banker, and Guy Kibbee as the detective, and the heroine's parents are played by Clara Blandick and Walter Walker. Charles Giblyn, Robert McWade and others of note appear in the cast.

MIDWAY CITY

MIDWAY CITY, Oct. 12.—Mr. and Mrs. Robert Keller, who are on a three weeks' vacation trip, have left British Columbia, where they have been visiting Mrs. Keller's people. Mr. and Mrs. Fred Foley have been entertaining as their guest Mrs. Foley's brother, R. A. Haughton of Selma, who is on his way to Texas.

Mrs. W. H. Taylor and Mrs. Frank Henderson attended the Women's club meeting held Monday with the Woman's Improvement club of Los Alamitos, as representatives of the Midway City club.

Alvan Dan Stenbergh entertained as his guests at dinner one evening two young friends from Santa Monica, Robert Diebold and Miss Margaret Halney.

Mrs. W. D. Day, who is a member of the Women of Mooseheart of Long Beach, was in Los Angeles Tuesday evening. The chapter competed for a silver loving cup with the officers and drill teams of other lodges.

Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Sink of Long Beach were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. Gesner of South Jackson street.

Mr. Wasser and his brother-in-law, who have been deer hunting in the Bakersfield mountains, have returned home.

Mr. and Mrs. M. J. P. Heil and family were recent visitors in Santa Ana in the home of Mrs. Heil's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Byran Crawford.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Henderson entertained as evening guests in their home Mr. and Mrs. H. O. Chamberlin, friends from Westminster.

Mrs. Anna L. Van Stenbergh attended a luncheon one day in Santa Monica, where she lived before coming to Midway City.

Mrs. W. D. Day was hostess to two groups of visitors in her home, including Mrs. Irene Padula of Los Angeles, who spent two days as her guest, and Mr. and Mrs. Laughlin Miller and family of Long Beach, who were entertained at dinner one evening.

Dr. J. R. King, father of Mrs. C. C. Fulton, has been visiting in the Fulton home from Riverside. Harry Stephenson of San Diego

WM. POWELL IN STRONG DRAMA AT WEST COAST

The large audience last night at the Fox West Coast theater gave enthusiastic approval to William Powell's first starring vehicle for Warner Bros.—"The Road to Singapore."

The scenes are laid in the town of Khotia in Ceylon—a settlement encroached upon by the trackless jungle, and forever haunted by the sound of native tom-toms and wild ceremonies about forest fires.

Mr. Powell plays the part of Hugh Dawtry, a suave and worldly profligate who prefers to spend his days in the island far from so-called civilization—drinking—reminiscing on former triumphs and planning new ones.

To the weird outpost comes Philip, an English girl, who is to marry Dr. March, whom she had known in his student days at home. Dawtry meets her on the Ceylon-bound steamer, tries to win her notice, and, failing, schemes to have the jinxlike march carry her to his bungalow through a driving tropical rain.

Philip, marries March and is neglected by him on account of his many patients. Her only companion is his vivacious and naive sister—who tries on her own to gain the attention of Dawtry—whose determination to win Philip never wavers. The latter at last decides to take the watery road to Singapore with Wawtry—who warns her of his own fickleness—then the strange and thrilling climax nears—one of the many scenes which make "The Road to Singapore" with Dawtry darkly glamorous and so haunting.

The wife of the doctor is played with passionate sincerity by Doris Kenyon, and the ingenious sister is vividly portrayed by Marian Marsh—the seventeen-year-old screen discovery of the year.

THE TINYMITES

STORY BY HAL COCHRAN—PICTURES BY KNICK

The scene was a fine one, in a line along the shore looked very fine. "And now let's cook some supper," shouted Clowdy, with a grin. "The Travel Man brought cooking things. Gee! What we need he always brings. As soon as fine food is prepared I'm ready to sail in."

"You're always ready," Scouty said. "All right, then, son, go right ahead and gather wood to make the fire. There's plenty near at hand. You'd better work with all your might to build a real good appetite. And, too, if you are working, you won't fall in slumberland."

So with each Tiny lending aid, a monstrous fire was shortly made. The Travel Man said, "I will make some pancakes, sizzling hot. Then, after we have had our fill, we'll loaf around and rest until it's time to go to bed. Then we will sleep sound, like as not."

The pancakes tasted mighty good and each one ate all that he could. When finished they washed dishes in the water along the shore. In about an hour each Tiny went into his small but comfy tent. Before the others fell asleep they heard was Clowdy snore.

Next morning when the bunch arose the Travel Man said, "Goodness knows you Tinties are a sleepy bunch. It's almost half past 10. Your breakfast's waiting, cooked just right." And shortly every Tiny-mite was eating to his heart's content. They all seemed starved again.

Soon voices could be heard nearby and then the bunch heard Carpy cry, "Oh, look, some men are standing out there on the rocks. I wish that we could watch them for a spell. They may be willing. Who can tell? 'Twill be real interesting 'cause they're trying to spear some fish."

MAYBE UNEMPLOYMENT SOLVED

Mrs. Aimee Semple McPherson Hutton probably feels that Mayor Curley of Boston is exceedingly liberal with her (Aimee's) offerings, for did you note he announced that she was going to give half of the offerings received at her revival meetings to the poor?

Mrs. Hutton says that her expenses are $2600 a day, and the collections might not meet the expenses. We should judge if they did meet the expenses, her meetings would be a great success. Certainly the poor of Boston could hardly expect to get rich out of the Mayor's program.

We are rather of the opinion that Mrs. Hutton will have as difficult a time as she had in Scotland. Some way or other, some sections of the east do not respond to the emotional appeal as do the people in sections of the west. It might be possible that Mrs. McPherson-Hutton as an attraction, would be such a drawing card in Boston that the splitting of the offerings between herself and the poor would be a real means of Boston's solving the problem of depression, for the time that Sister Aimee is there. It would help make the meetings popular and the offerings large.

The Boston mayor must be a sly old fox or else he is very wisely advised, maybe both. But we will match Mrs. Aimee Semple McPherson-Hutton against him any time after she has learned his methods. He will be easy, oh, so easy.

If the offerings are sufficiently large so that it relieves the unemployment problem, it may be that Mrs. Hutton will have a great undertaking cut out for her, to visit the other large cities and help raise the unemployment fund on the percentage basis. It beats all how many ways there are of raising money in the world.

Now that Al Capone's income has been cut to $2,000,000 we can expect the gangs to take matters into their own hands and bring back prosperity.

AN OPPORTUNITY

Dr. O. W. E. Cook, who is professor of International Relations at the University of Southern California, is delivering a series of four addresses here in Santa Ana, which are most timely and are eliciting much interest. He speaks at 12:50 on Friday under the auspices of the Knights of the Round Table at Ketchers.

Last Friday his subject was "The financial conditions in the United States." This address was loaded with facts, comprehensive in its nature, analytical and discerning. Next Friday he will speak on the subject of what the foreign nations are doing to find a way out of their present muddle, with special reference to the Five-Year Plan of Russia.

These lectures are open to the public, and it is probable that many will desire to hear this third one in particular for the Russian program is the most provocative of thought of any national work that is being carried on.

This particular lecture is preliminary to the final one on the suggested economic way out for America. It is probable that the lecturer will contrast the program of Russia with the proposed program for America. It may be that he will discuss in his final lecture the plan as outlined by Mr. Swope.

In any case, the opportunity for information on the most important matters before the world, discussed by a master, is presented to the people of Santa Ana and vicinity. There was an increased number present last Friday over the Friday before. This will undoubtedly be true this coming Friday.

The luncheon is at 12:15. All are welcome to this. The lecturer begins at 12:50, and those who are unable to come to the luncheon are perfectly welcome to come to the lecture.

MARJORIE, THE FISH, AND US

Oh to be a child again! Here is four year old Marjorie Best reputed to be the world's champion baby swimmer. She has arrived in California, home of champions. Before Marjorie was two years of age she swam twenty-five minutes unaided. A year later she swam a quarter of a mile up the Detroit River in eighteen minutes. The child was taught by her father who is head of a Detroit swimming school, but about to locate here. Now if some of us could eat Alice in Wonderland cake and become little children again and put ourselves in this man's hands we might be as good as little Marjorie.

What chance is there with us feeling older every minute! We are never too old to learn but Marjorie can certainly do better the job of imitating the fish than could an adult.

TRUTH WILL OUT

It is rather amusing sometimes to read the propaganda matter published in the Hearst newspapers. We refer particularly to the anti-dry crusade, for be it known that Hearst and his newspapers are leading the "wet" parade in this country.

The whole force of himself, his writers, and his newspapers is looking toward the breaking down of sentiment for the enforcement of the Eighteenth Amendment and the Volstead Act. The closing paragraph in an article in the current issue of one of his papers should be read by all who want to keep abreast of the facts as they develop on this question. It should be read with the knowledge that this comes from the "wet" headquarters itself, and the admission is well worth considering. It says:

MANY ARDENT LIBERALS HAVE FAILED TO REALIZE THAT ANY CHANGE IN THE PROHIBITION LAW MUST BE MADE BY CONGRESS. ON PRESENT FORM THE CONGRESSIONAL SITUATION IS NOT ENCOURAGING IN THIS RESPECT. A CHECK SHOWS THAT NOT MORE THAN THIRTY OF THE NINETY-SIX SENATORS FAVOR ANY CHANGE. OF THE 435 MEMBERS OF THE HOUSE, ONLY ABOUT 125 COULD NOW BE MOBILIZED ON THE WET SIDE.

Andy Mellon, they say, didn't know his aluminum company was to cut wages. Delicatessen dealers have a word for it.

AVENGING JUSTICE FINDS THE CRIMINAL

The death of James O'Neill, former head of the Prairie Oil and Gas Company, as an exile from his native land in Paris, calls attention to the nemesis which has followed all those who had a part in the oil scandals of the Harding administration. He and his fellow expatriate, Blackmer, chairman of the Midwest Refining company, fled the country when they were called to testify in court. Colonel Stewart was forced from the headship of the Standard Oil company of Indiana; Sinclair served a term in jail; Fall's ranch was sold under the sheriff's hammer, and he is now serving a year and a day in the penitentiary; and Doheny lost his lease and has had to pay a large sum to the government for the oil taken out. Blackmer simply awaits the fate of his fellow expatriate, James O'Neill.

These men played for high stakes and lost. Does it pay? Certainly the results do not justify the daring throw. Not only has honor been thrown to the winds, but justice has exacted its reparations. Would that this might be a warning to those who would follow in their ways.

"HOW COME?"

We have read with great interest of the fellows who marry for money, and sometimes women as well—of the difficulties to find the woman or man with money, and of how often they are deceived and think they have money when they haven't. And then of the difficulties of extracting it, and getting the divorce and getting away with it. It is strange how the same man or woman can be used as a victim more than once, sometimes repeatedly.

We wonder how they missed that 93 year-old woman who has been discovered with nearly a million dollars in her skirt pocket and in her hotel room. Surely they haven't gotten it down to a science yet. They miss good pickings, or maybe this old lady had sense.

Men and Elephants on Long March Together

San Bernardino Sun

A new slant on that fascinating problem, the age of the human race, is given by Henry Fairfield Osborn, New York anthropologist. He takes the various types of prehistoric man represented in famous museum skulls, and lines them up chronologically as follows:

The Pittdown Man, whose skull was found in an English gravel pit, lived about 1,000,000 years ago. The Heidelberg and Peking Men lived 500,000 years ago. Old Pithecanthropus Erectus, familiarly known as the Java Man, came along about 500,000 years ago. After a long gap, represented by absence of known skulls, came the British Neanderthal Man of Germany 70,000 years ago, the artistic Cromagnon Man of southern France 30,000 years ago, and the Nordic Man of southern Scandinavia, 12,000 years ago.

Mr. Osborn deduces these dates not from evidence in the skulls themselves, but from the better-known ages of the fossil teeth of prehistoric elephants, hunted by man from primitive days. "Man," he says, "has been the traveling companion of members of the elephant sub-family for a very long time, roughly estimated at 1,250,000 years before our era."

If this is true, it helps to explain why we like elephants.

The only sure thing is that man has been on this earth immeasurably longer than our grandfathers supposed. The large figures are easier to believe than the small ones. Imagine Nordic man, with his fine build and lofty faculties, developing from an ignorant brute in so short a time as 12,000 years!

Wanted: A Clue to Quiet

New York Times

In an effort to give the traveler exactly what he wants, guide books grow year by year more specific and informative. A price list for French hotels teems with mystic signs, explained by a key in time-table style. A tiny tennis racket, a golf flag, a horse, crossed oars, a fish, skis, skates, a sled and a hockey stick indicate the sport offered at each hotel.

A writer in Figaro regrets that these modern conveniences are too often accompanied by distressing noise. Ventilated, irrigated, fitted with a nervous system of wires for telephones and electricity, the fine modern hotel is sometimes a huge noise-trap. The elevator whistles like a flute. The water gurgles in the pipes. Street cars rattle past and motor horns toot.

What this Frenchman would like to see added to the guide books is a sign indicating hotels where the hydraulic apparatus makes no more noise than a spring trickling over moss, where the bells are heard only by the hotel staff, and the room walls are not similar to violin cases as transmitters of noise. A fitting symbol for such a sanctuary might be the sign used in music for a "whole rest."

Smash! The Battle Of The Century Is On!

More Truth Than Poetry

By James J. Montague

ESSAY ON ECONOMICS

I sowed my forty-acre lot
With wheat and oats and rye;
It burgeoned like a garden spot
Along about July.
But when it promised me a yield
Of rich and yellow grain
I drove my team around the field
And plowed it up again.
For when farm prices start to drop
(So all the expert find)
The man who doesn't raise a crop
Will benefit mankind.

My cow fed up on bran and shorts
To sate her appetite,
Supplied me milk and cream by quarts
At morning and at night.
But when the price of these went down,
My bovine joy and pride
I drove into the nearest town
And sold her for her hide.
Why such a creature feed and house?
Men ought to realize
That if there were not any cows
The price of milk would rise!

The man was rated high, I know,
Who, in the days of yore,
Could make two blades of grass to grow
Where one blade grew before.
But if existed such a man
Upon the earth today
He'd be denounced, because his plan
Reduced the price of hay.
Why bumper crops don't help, but harm,
Is more than I can tell.
But it would seem that farmers farm
Not wisely but too well.

Uncommon Sense

BY JOHN BLAKE

A WAR THAT NEVER ENDS

For more centuries that we know anything about, man lived side by side with enemies far more deadly than his fellow men who were hostile to him, and paid no attention to them. These foes waved no hostile banners, raised no hostile war cries, never appeared before towns with great threatening armies. They did their work of destruction silently but effectually. And man, to whom they were invisible, gave them no heed.

Indeed, up to a comparatively short time ago, any one who told him that his ranks were being thinned by creatures he could not feel or see would probably have been regarded as a witch, and hanged or burned.

But no destruction can continue indefinitely without attracting attention. By and by—a comparatively short time ago—men began to get curious about their surroundings, instead of taking them for granted.

They began to wonder why pests and plagues came at intervals, to strike with deadly maladies a great number of the population.

They thought about these matters, and after much thought—several centuries of it—they began to do a little observation and investigation.

Today the war against man's worst enemies is well organized, and gaining battle after battle.

It has not reached complete victory yet. Perhaps it will not for thousands of years. But it is at least an organized and worldwide battle, and all the nations, thought they may disagree on other matters, are solidly enlisted in it—even the African savages who at last see a chance of destroying their particular deadly foe, the fly whose bite produces sleeping sickness.

There is no more noble activity in the world than this. There is no man and no woman more worthy of the admiration and esteem—and substantial money reward—than the scientist who gives his life to the battle against the unseen bodies which bring about death and disease.

The work of such men and women is just beginning to be appreciated. But as yet none of them has ever achieved such fame and such a lasting place in history as have the famous soldiers who were killing human beings while the scientist was struggling to save their lives.

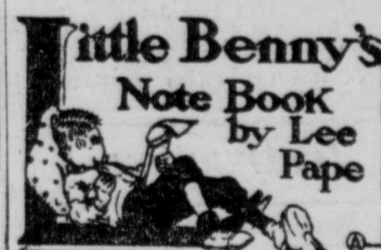

I applaud the spiritual leaders who endeavor to save our souls, but I know few of them who work as hard and as intelligently in that direction as do the scientists who seek to save our bodies, and prolong our years so that we may be of use to our fellow citizens.

The time has not come when men like Pasteur are as widely admired as men like Napoleon. But it will come.

But for the continuance of human life on this world there would be no great mental achievement, no carrying out of the plan of the Creator.

And but for the scientist and his endeavors, man would in time perish from the earth, and insects and unseen organisms would have it for their own field of battle and destruction.

A family gathering was held on Monday evening in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jasper Leck.

Hereafter the weekly assemblies of the Santa Ana high school will be held at the Temple theater.

It was learned here today that Julian Matthews, Jules Jaques, Roger Braniger and Frank Niman who left here about a year ago to tour the country, are now privates in Uncle Sam's army.

Little Miss Margaret Hutchings, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Hutchings of West Seventeenth street, celebrated her ninth birthday Saturday afternoon with a party.

Walter Eden and Dr. John Wehrby, president and secretary of the Santa Ana chapter of the American Red Cross, plan to attend a conference of chapter officials of Southern California organizations in Los Angeles Saturday morning.

Yesterday afternoon a call to the fire department was brought about by a blaze at a manhole at the gas works of the Southern Counties Gas company on Minnie street.

Thoughts On Modern Life

By GLENN FRANK

THE MYSTIC PROBLEM OF MONEY

As a naive lad of nine I remember the awe with which I listened to the eager and endless discussions of the money question in the presidential campaign of '96.

I forgot the lure of marbles, mud turtles and lumbreplex, in a fascinated following of the talk that ran high and hard around the doorstep and the benches alongside it at the general store and postoffice of a Missouri village that boasted the multitudinous population of 183.

The figure of William Jennings Bryan, a kind of handsome Don Quixote from the dank bottomland of the Platte, Silver Dick Bland, the Gold Democrats, the free and unlimited coinage of silver at a ratio of 16-to-1—these and a score of other faces and phrases still stick in my memory from the clash of points and prejudices that took place in that postoffice parliament I attended in the now seemingly far-off days of '96 in the little village of Greenton, Missouri.

I do not mean that I understood very much of what these village sages said about the money problem.

But I can close my eyes now, shut out the clamor of the day's problems and still hear Len Parker and Fred Tice battle by the hour over bimetalism. This was a longer word than either was used to using in his day-to-day conversation, but it was part of the patter men were everywhere using as they fought over the money question.

My father was a "gold standard" Republican.

I never quite fathomed what the gold standard meant, but, as my father waged his verbal battles against Bryanistic bimetalism, I felt a boyish awe at the mention of the gold standard, not, I imagine, unlike the awe primitive men felt at the mention of the supernatural.

Now and then, a ten dollar gold piece would find its way into the family purse, and I remember always touching it and talking about it as something with unique significance.

As I grew older and came to know business men, bankers and industrialists, I was impressed by the fact that they, in their maturity and experience, still had something of the confused and fumbling awe in the presence of the money question that I, in my immaturity and inexperience, had as a boy.

On no issue, perhaps, has there been as much fuzzy thinking and fumbling as on the money question. England's recession, at least for a time, from the gold standard forced the money question into the foreground of the world's affairs, as it was in the American politics of 1906.

Tomorrow I shall try to reduce to the simplest and most intelligible terms why England renounced the gold standard at least for the time being.

OUR CHILDREN

By ANGELO PATRI

THAT LAZY BOY

"What would you do with a boy of 17 who refuses to get up in the morning, refuses to go to school, refuses to do anything but what he wants to do. He won't study, and he won't work."

I'd have a conference with myself and ask why I had allowed this to happen. There was a beginning time when it was easy enough to assert leadership, even authority, if that were necessary, and make him rise on time, do his job, and behave like a human being. Now the mischief is done and all the mistakes will have to be corrected and the boy reconditioned. That is no easy matter.

Adolescence slows the boys down always. For a couple of years, the 12 to 14 spans, particularly, the boys are likely to show an inclination to repose on their laurels. All activity is distasteful. That is to be expected, but it is also to be adjusted. The boy must be kept moving even though it be on another's power, until he is able to take over his own responsibility once more.

Carefully plan his day. He is to rise and retire on schedule time. His school hours are set, of course. His meal times are to be observed religiously. His study hours are to be regulated to allow him enough time and no more, for home study. He is to play in the open air for at least two whole hours every day and the half of Saturday. All day Saturday if he likes, but it must be active play on the field. No hanging about the house and no long sessions in the movies. He needs open air and activity.

The boy of the family should always have some responsibility to the household. There must be a job that is his and for which he is held responsible. Perhaps it is a job in the garage, keeping it swept, the car cleaned and polished.

ed. Or it may be the walks and porches and the cellar. In the apartment house he can be responsible for some of the household chores. The vacuum cleaner, the floor polisher, the electric refrigerator, all offer him opportunities for usefulness. Some job he must have. It need not be a heavy one, but it must be one that is worthwhile. No made up job will serve. The real thing or nothing is demanded.

The boy who refuses to go to school beyond the age required by the law, and who refuses to work, ought to be made work for his living. How that is to be done under the present circumstances is not clear. There is no need for the labor of boys and girls. The adult workers need all the opportunity there is for work. Our youth ought to be in schools under training to carry on the work of the next generation when their turn comes. But our schools are not fitted for that. All they offer usually is a dreary education of the youth to heart, and campaign for schools, the right sort of schools, they would be earning the gratitude of generations to come. And they would be doing a precious service to their country.

BONAR LAW'S SPEECH

On Oct. 12, 1917, Bonar Law, the British chancellor of the exchequer acting as representative of the prime minister, speaking at a dinner tendered to Congressmen Medill McCormick and London, told of Britain's reliance upon the United States. He said:

"I see it constantly stated in the German newspapers that that is the last hope of the Allies. We do rely upon America, and with good reason, for I, as chancellor of the exchequer, am ready to say now what I should have been very sorry to admit six months ago, that without the aid of the United States the financial position of the Allies would have been in a very disastrous situation today."

"We have reason to be grateful for the readiness of the help which has been given by our allies on the other side of the water in this respect."

"But while we rely on the United States, that does not mean that we are ceasing our own efforts."

Hawkins' credit was at somewhat low ebb when he called on his tailor to try on a new suit he had ordered. He found that the cloth, fit, and in fact everything about the suit was perfect.

He turned to the tailor and said in a pleased tone: "The suit is fine—very creditable, indeed!"

"Oh, no," cried the tailor; "cash only!"—Tit-Bits.
